Globe Girders Making

Omaha This Morning.

By Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—The world flyers circled over Kansas City at 2:10 p. m., central standard time, today, on their way to Muskogee, Okla.

By Associated Press.
ROSECRANS FIELD, Mo., Sept. 18.—After a stop less than an hour here today for lunch and fuel the world flyers hopped off for Muskogee, Okla. Lieut. Lowell H. Smith in the flag plane Chicago, the first to take off. He was away at 1:15 p. m. Lieut. Leigh Wade was up next, two minutes behind the flag plane. Lieut. Nelson followed several minutes later.

The flyers headed south for Kansas City, over which they will fly. Lieut. Smith said he expected the flight to Muskogee would require five hours.

Lieut. Smith read Associated Press weather reports telling of low visibility and threatening weather near the Oklahoma-Kansas border, but decided to push on.

Lieut. Wright, flying in advance of the globe circlers, told Lieut. Smith that in event of bad flying conditions west of Kansas City the planes could land and remain in Kansas City over night.

The round-the-world flyers landed at Rosecrans Field at 12:29 p. m., central standard time, from Omaha, and received a wild demonstration.

The 125-mile flight down the Missouri River valley from Nebraska was made in 1 hour and 45 minutes.

Tens of thousands of persons greeted the airmen as they passed the field, five miles out, more than 4,000 spectators gathered to do honor to the globe encirclers.

In the city factory whistles and bells clanged and hundred of car horns blared a welcome.

Streets were filled with people waving their necks upward and the tops of many buildings were crowded with office workers.

One-Pounder Is Fired.

The flagplane Chicago, piloted by Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, landed next. Lieut. Leigh Wade in the Boston II followed, and Lieut. Eric Nelson then landed the New Orleans.

While the flyers were overhead a one-pounder boomed out a 21-gun signal.

The three pilots were escorted to a reviewing stand for welcoming ceremony. Seated on the front of the stand, Lieutenants Smith, Nelson and Wade munched sandwiches and drank coffee while spectators extolled their remarkable accomplishments.

X. S. Hilliard, of St. Joseph, greeted the flyers as "your Magicians of the air." It was fitting, he said, that St. Joseph, once a pony express station, should be a stopping place of the globe encirclers.

"May God speed you on your way," he said, "and keep you unto your journey's end."

The Official Welcome.

Carl H. Wolfley of St. Joseph, Governor of the Missouri District of the National Aeronautic Association presided and presented to the flyers leather bill folds containing gold plates appropriately inscribed in commemoration of their stop in St. Joseph. The flyers were officially welcomed by Commander-General Harry Smith, Commandant of Fort Leavenworth, behalf of the Army; Adjutant-General William A. Raup of the National Guard in the name of Gov. Arthur M. Hyde and Mayor Henry E. Grossman of St. Joseph.

Twenty-four army and civilian planes were at Rosecrans Field to welcome the flyers.

Ten army planes from Kansas City, piloted by reserve officers, came in. The pilots were Lieutenants Haynes, Steinhardt, Grogan, DeGie, Spake, Childs, Campbell and Curtis.

They Hopped Off From Omaha at

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 18.—The Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, Methodist minister at Ina, 12 miles south of here, was arrested today on a charge of poisoning his wife, Anna, 44 years old, who died unexpectedly last Friday.

The arrest followed the report of Dr. William D. McNally, Chicago chemist, who said sufficient poison was found in the stomach of Mrs. Hight to cause death.

McNally, in his report, recommends that the house and clothing be searched for evidence of arsenic and that the druggists be questioned as to whether the poison was purchased from them.

TWO SUSPECTS IDENTIFIED

Pair Arrested an Hour After Man Reports Being Held Up by Five Men.

An hour after five robbers held up Albert Bensinger, storekeeper, at 2005 North Twelfth street, and took $8 from his cash drawer, Capt. Dudley McDonald, newly assigned to the North Market Street District, arrested two men who were identified by Bensinger as two of the robbers.

Bensinger was in a rear room at 7:30 a. m. today, when the five men in a Chandler automobile stopped at the rear door. Two men stayed in the machine, while the two others waited at the door while the two others entered. A wit ness reported a license number which Capt. McDonald found later on a Chandler car at Twelfth and Wash streets. In the car were Sam Cillo, 25, saloon keeper at 826 Bidle street, and John Delcora, 27, his bartender. Bensinger declared that Delcora was the man who waited at the door and that Cillo was the man who took the money. The prisoners, however, indignantly denied any knowledge of the holdup.

Capt. Frank Nally, who Capt. McDonald replaced at North Market street, made a notable capture of payroll robbers last week.

President Continue Upward Swing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Awards totaling more than $65,000,000, a sum which exceeds the aggregate of all previous awards and includes approximately $34,000,000 to 61 American insurance companies and $24,000,000 to the Veterans' Bureau, were handed down today by the American-German War Claims Commission.

The Commission also ruled that 12 American life insurance companies could not hold Germany responsible for losses incurred on 18 policies insuring 1,000 persons killed in the Lusitania disaster.

Judge Edwin B. Parker, umpire of the Commission, handed down the decision in the Lusitania case, after the commissioners for the respective countries were unable to agree. The two commissioners, however, handed down 66 awards in individual claims of various kinds, totaling $6,271,434.81.

The awards to the Veterans' Bureau and the 61 insurance companies were for damages suffered by American insurers as a result of losses on hulls and cargoes due to warlike operations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—President Coolidge left his desk for a while this morning to review the long file of Quantico (Va.) marines returning through here from their annual maneuvers near Frederick, Md.

COUNTY PROSECUTING ATTORNEY REMOVED FROM OFFICE BY JUDGE PENDING GRAND JURY INQUIRY

Text of Judge's Instructions
To St. Louis County Grand Jury

AFFIDAVITS CHARGE HE RECEIVED WEEKLY SUMS FOR IMMUNITY

Court Mentions Rumors That Criminal Gangs Have Wrongfully Influenced Adam Henry Jones.

JONES QUESTIONS JUDGE'S AUTHORITY TO REMOVE HIM

Denounces Action as Political Move Engineered by Boss Essen to Defeat Him for Re-election — Wayne Ely Named Temporary Prosecutor.

Prosecuting Attorney Adam Henry Jones of St. Louis County today was temporarily removed from office by Circuit Judge Wurdeaman, pending a grand jury investigation of his integrity and effectiveness as a public official.

This action was taken simultaneously with the impaneling of the annual grand jury at Clayton, and the reading of the Judge's instructions to it.

As Temporary Prosecuting Attorney the Judge appointed Wayne Ely of Webster Groves, former Assistant United States District Attorney, who was instructed to carry on all the duties of Jones' office, including presentation of evidence to the grand jury.

The illicit sale and possession of intoxicating liquor is carried on in this county, as it is more or less in every other community.

In injunctive proceedings brought by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilfred Jones in the Circuit Court, several so-called "bootlegging joints" have been effectively closed, particularly at Brentwood, Meramec Highlands and Maplewood. At the latter place the municipal authorities have materially aided in ridding that city of these slot machines.

Organized bands of gangsters in and through their leaders have established their headquarters or hangouts in our county and seem to be immune from substantial interference.

There is considerable authority for the statement that the illicit sale of intoxicating liquor and gambling is being carried on at the saloons or roadhouses, composing their "hangouts"; that these places are used as clearing houses for crime; that they have intimidated and have attempted to intimidate election officers and law enforcement officers in our County in the performance of their duty; that they have interfered in and have retarded the administration of the criminal laws that they have terrorized many of our people and have invaded their homes and have caused large-scale operations towards securing the nomination and election of certain township and County officers, and are attempting the colonization and fraudulent registration of voters for the coming election.

Deputy Constable Ward, and a companion, were arrested after they got an appointment to meet a saloonkeeper who alleges they tried to extort $600 for "protection" in the sale of liquor. Ward and his companion fled when they saw the officers and were chased by Willmann and Russell from Webster Groves. No charge was filed against Ward, but Constable Stanton announced he would be discharged.

The warrants were issued by Justice of the Peace Gould at Webster Groves and Russell was called from Justice of the Peace Remmeyer's court and served by a Deputy Sheriff. He furnished $1,000 bond and resumed the prosecution of a case in progress. Willmann will be served by Coroner Tracy, as the Sheriff is the highest peace enforcement officer of the county.

He furnished $1,000 bond and resumed the prosecution of a case in progress. Willmann will be served by Coroner Tracy, as the Sheriff is the highest peace enforcement officer of the county.

It has been currently reported that many of these places have been weekly contributing to certain officials for immunity from arrest and prosecution.

Some Special Matters.

Evidence bearing on offenses of different kinds and degrees will be submitted to you for your action, but I direct you to my duty to advise you of certain phases of law violation that will need special attention at your hands.

These rumors are so persistent and definite, that in justice to the proper administration of the law, and to the Prosecuting Attorney, an inquiry must be made by you to these charges and other charges of corruption, and I have no doubt that he will allay your fears.

That ended the discussion.

Judge Wurdeaman told Jones that he could take up his protest with Attorney-General Barrett. The grand jury was adjourned till Monday to afford opportunity for such a protest.

Jones' Statement.

Afterwards Jones said to reporters: "I welcome a full investigation by an impartial jury, in a legal manner, of my office. Thank God, we're not living in darkest Russia, where the Judge sits as a witness, Judge and Jury."

He declared there is no authority under the law for removal of any county or State officer without a hearing.

No one but the Prosecuting Attorney and his assistants or the Attorney-General can bring in a grand jury.

Jones said: "I'm not going to argue with the Judge. I'm going to argue with the Post-Dispatch."

"Then, your honor," the Prosecuting Attorney replied, "what are you doing as temporarily disqualifying me from office? Is it?"

"Yes."

"Without giving me a chance to be heard?"

"Yes."

STEEL CONCERN AGREE TO DROP 'PITTSBURG PLUS' PRICE BASIS

Notify Trade Commission
That They Will Comply
With Order as Far as Practicable.

WILL QUOTE PRICES
F. O. B. AT PLANTS

Order Issued Last July on Ground That System Was Unfair Method of Competition.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The United States Steel Corporation and other concerns affected have notified the Federal Trade Commission that they will conform, "so far as it is practicable to do so," to the commission's order directing abandonment of the Pittsburg plus system of establishing prices in the industry.

The decision was made public yesterday by the commission, the respondents having determined to conform "without admitting the validity of said order or the jurisdiction of the commission to make the same."

The response was signed by the United States Steel Corporation, American Bridge Co., American Sheet and Tin Plate Co., Carnegie Steel Co., National Tube Co., American Steel and Wire Co., Illinois Steel Co., Minnesota Steel Co. and Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Co.

The commission's order, dated July 21, was issued after a long series of hearings and arguments. The order held that the Pittsburg plus system, by which the corporation and its subsidiaries quoted prices from all plants, regardless of location, at the Pittsburg base price plus freight charges from the city to destination, was an unfair method of competition, in violation of the Federal Trade Commission act, and a means of price discrimination in violation of the Clayton act.

Basis of Ruling.

The commission held that the system lessened or eliminated competition, retarded business in all steel centers except Pittsburg, and added greatly to the cost of steel products, amounting to $30,000,000 a year in the Western States. It was said the order, similar in effect to the old "steel pool" ("Gary dinners" and other methods regarded as price fixing systems) contrary to public interest.

The proceeding was originated by the commission and hearings were held at practically all producing points, with attorneys for 32 associated Middle Western States and steel consumers later joining in the fight to have the system abandoned.

Abandonment of Plan.

The respondents, in the report made public yesterday, announced that they "have abandoned, the Pittsburg plus system, as defined in said order, throughout the various organizations" and will not "make use of the same," and asserted further: "Respondents will not quote for sale or sell their rolled steel products upon any other basing point than that where the products are manufactured or from which they are shipped."

"Sales from manufacturing plants, fabricating plants and warehouses will be made f. o. b. plant or warehouse or at delivered prices, as occasion may offer. In all cases of sales or delivery, the price or contract of sale or the invoice will clearly and distinctly indicate how much is charged for the steel products sold f. o. b. the producing or shipping points and how much is charged for the actual transportation of such products, if any, from such producing or shipping point to destination."

"All f. o. b. selling prices, whether at the mills, warehouses or fabricating plants and all delivered prices, will be made discriminatory within the meaning of the second section of the Clayton act, but will be subject to the variations permitted by said act."

HOLES IN LEAGUE COVENANT ARE BEING PLUGGED SO NONE CAN CRAWL OUT INTO WAR

French and Greek Statesmen Are Working on Change in Article Allowing Domestic Jurisdiction in Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—"Plugging up every hole in the covenant of the League of Nations, so that nobody can crawl out and have an excuse to start war," is the picturesque phraseology now used in Geneva to describe the efforts of the statesmen and jurists to construct a protocol which will really make peace.

Therefore, Sir Cecil argued, Britain's peculiar service on the sea should be safeguarded by immunity from the interference of prize courts, except with the British admiral. In support of this claim it was pointed out that Britain might be called before the World Court in matters arising out of the British navy's defense of the league.

The practice of Britain of taking seizure and search cases individually before an Admiralty court was the cause of the British-American misunderstanding during the war, and was the leading question of the notes sent to British Government by Washington prior to America's entrance in the war.

No present protest either directly or indirectly is reported from Washington, but the American Government is beginning to make known its wishes against an uncontrolled sea policeman is a matter of discussion in the delegations. There is no definite information beyond the American inquiries through the London, Paris and other embassies.

This is regarded as negative and as leaving a hole in the covenant which must be plugged. Raoul Fernandez and M. Loucheur of France have been charged with this plugging operation.

The French idea is that if the council is unanimous in declaring any dispute purely a domestic question all the members of the league must accept its decision and engage solemnly not to make the issue involved a cause for war.

Although making no change in the position they have held on the last two days, they have agreed to make a formal statement to reiterate that Great Britain intends to stand by the covenant and all its sanctions. The British delegates in the last 24 hours have given indications of a kind of shrinking up in attitude and a tendency to avoid comment on the progress of the assembly.

They seem to apprehend that any unlimited commitment of the services of the British fleet in the interest of maintaining peace would meet with disfavor.

There is a distinct feeling that Great Britain is not with the council in the apprehension on misgivings of the American people as to what the British might do in connection with American commerce in the event of any conflict arising in Europe.

The French, however, continue to express satisfaction with the progress of the negotiations.

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—Washington is making inquiries through the American Embassies at London and Paris as to how much authority the League Council has in the sea under the arbitration pact.

Geneva learns that America let it be understood it would not view with a friendly eye the giving to any nation the right to police the seas without control being exercised in the name of the league.

Washington, however, continues to express satisfaction with the progress of the negotiations.

PEKIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PEKIN, Sept. 18.—The Chinese Central Government today officially declared its intention of suppressing Chang Tso-Lin, hostile Manchurian war lord.

The presidential mandate defining the status of the Central Government was issued this morning several days after concentration of the Government's troops had announced to the world that Pekin was prepared to answer with cold steel Chang's defiance of its authority.

Bombs Dropped on Gate City of Chinese Wall.

By the Associated Press.

TIENTSIN, Sept. 18.—The eastern extremity of the great Chinese wall, once considered an adequate defense against the Manchurian invaders, was being bombed today from the air by Chang Tso-Lin aviators from Mukden, principal city of Manchuria.

In the question of the policing of the seas the pact is being carefully drawn to prevent it appearing to be a means of boxing America in between British patrolling in the Atlantic and the Japanese in the Pacific. The compelling apprehension in Washington, the British and Japanese have voted to serve on the question of the seizure of merchant vessels of a power outside the league in the event that they are policing the seas in support of the arbitration court. The Italians agree to the propriety of a similar reserve.

American anxiety is directed at the offer made Sept. 11 by Sir Cecil Hurst, legal adviser to the British Foreign Office, in which Britain was represented as willing to place heavy at the disposal of the league, providing that no prizes cases arising in the sea patrol service should be subjected to arbitration.

Britain's Efforts On Seas.

Britain's contribution toward league efforts to maintain or restore peace, it was said, would be largely on the sea, where she would be subject to the variations permitted by said act."

NOT EVEN THE SOVIET CAN KEEP THE WAITERS TIPLIES

Serving Staffs in Restaurants Take Chance of Punishment Because Pay is Low.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 26.—Findings it impossible to get along with the institution of tippling-out clubs, the Soviet project Russa instead has tried to do away with "tipping" and has discarded the waiter's apron, laundered shirt and white collar. Most waiters in Russian restaurants now wear a natty blouse of navy blue, with army style collar and no tie.

Although waiters in Russia receive a most slender salary, it is a punishable offense for them to accept gratuities of any kind. "Don't degrade your fellowman by offering him a tip; a tip is a bribe." This is the surprising warning American visitors to Russia, who in other European countries have been scarcely plagued by tip-seekers, find on the walls of the Russian restaurants.

In spite of this injunction, however, waiters are forced, out of sheer economic needs, not only to accept gratuities but to seek them. It would be impossible for them to exist on the small salaries they receive.

Coolidge Wishes Mexico Prosperity.

By the Associated Press.

Custom of 100 Years Is Laid Aside in Case of $6,000,000 Mine Laying Craft.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The United States Navy has at last come around to the policy generally observed by European nations of strict secrecy concerning implements of national defense. The custom of 100 years is being set aside in the case of the new mine-laying submarine for which $6,150,000 has been appropriated. Beyond the fact that her plans call for width of beam, speed and cruising radius beyond anything known in that type, details of the new submersible are jealously guarded.

No nation among the signatories to the Washington arms convention permits inspection of its navy yards in which construction is in progress upon vessels not covered but slight restraint has been imposed by the United States.

Both England and Japan are known to have made great strides in their newest auxiliaries. The British submarine SX-1 having aroused especial comment, although not the slightest detail is known generally of her capabilities. In the case of Japan, it has been said officially that the United States Government is ignorant of the potentialities comprised in her newest cruisers and destroyer leaders.

The application for the injunction was filed by owners of a chain of filling stations.

MILES' RELEASE ON BAIL ATTACKED BY JURY FOREMAN

Head of Inquest Which Indicted Politician's Son for Murder, Criticizes Judge Hamilton.

SAYS IT WAS AGREED NOT TO TAKE BOND

E. J. Mannion Declares Prosecuting Attorney Kept His Word but He 'Can't Understand Judge'

Edward J. Mannion, president of the Telegraphers' National Bank and foreman of the grand jury which, last February, indicted "Jimmy" Miles Jr. for the murder of Charles O'Neal, today criticized severely the action of Circuit Judge Hamilton in permitting the release of Miles on bond, following his return and surrender Monday.

Mannion said, at the time when the first-degree murder indictment against Miles was voted, the grand jury discussed with Circuit Attorney Sidener the wanton character of the killing of O'Neal, and that Sidener agreed with them that Miles, if apprehended, ought not to be admitted to bail. Mannion said Sidener told the grand jurors that he would not recommend the granting of bond in the case.

Sidener stated, when asked about the matter by Judge Hamilton in court yesterday, that he had no objection to the granting of bond. He did not remember formally against the bond, but said that the matter was one for the Judge to decide. At that time Judge Hamilton had already agreed with ward politicians who had interested Miles, that he should be released on $40,000 bond. That agreement was made Saturday, as a condition of his appearance in court, after having been a fugitive for seven months.

"Judges Disregard Jury's Opinion." "Such acts as that of Judge Hamilton," Mannion said, "make it appear that grand juries are no longer needed. The Circuit Judges appear to disregard the grand jury's opinion whenever it suits them to do so."

"Our grand jury was of average intelligence. When we found the first-degree murder indictment against Miles, we had in mind the general interpretation of the law, that first-degree murder is not bailable. If we had not found the evidence sufficient, we would not have voted the indictment."

"Circuit Attorney Sidener agreed with our opinion that the case was not bailable, and said he would not recommend bond in case Miles should be apprehended. Mr. Sidener has kept his word in this matter. But I do not understand why the court should have acted in this case so contrary to the general opinion."

The other members of the grand jury which indicted Miles were George E. Hoffmann, president of the Merchants-Laclede National Bank; J. T. Dodds, vice president of the Mohnd City Trust Co.; James L. Barngrave, of the Barngrave & Specht Real Estate Co.; E. A. Bokern, president of the Bokern Real Estate Co.; John P. Cabanne, president of the St. Louis Dairy Co.; Charles R. Binnis, secretary of the Copper Clad Malleable Range Co.; John B. Dubrouillet, secretary of the Meyer Bros. Coffee Co.; John T. Garrett, president of the Missouri Bridge and Dam Co.; Julius W. Gerhard, vice president of the Southern Acid and Sulphur Co.; Albert Guerden, secretary of the Guerden Hat Co., and James T. Keller, treasurer of the Post-Dispatch.

Jury Criticized Bond System. In a special report, which it made April 1, this grand jury spoke at length of the abuses of the bond system, and concluded this part of its report by saying: "After all, the chief trouble does not lie primarily with the bondsmen and fixers, but with the judges themselves."

Circuit Attorney Sidener agreed with the report, and issued a statement issued today on the Miles case, saying:

"The taking of bond is a judicial function, and not one with which I have anything to do. If a Judge calls for my recommendation in a matter of bond, I never hesitate to state my position. I never

"After the murder of O'Neal, I ordered the arrest of Miles on a charge of murder in the first degree, and ordered that he be held without bond. That order was never rescinded, and my attitude and actions since have been consistent with it. When Judge Hamilton asked me in court to state my position, I told him I opposed bond for Miles, but that the determination of the matter was a responsibility resting entirely on him. Thereupon, Judge Hamilton, acting entirely within his right and discretion, accepted bond, without any consent or acquiescence on my part."

Will Prosecute Vigorously. "I am giving close attention to the Miles case, and the people of St. Louis may rest assured that it will be vigorously prosecuted."

Sidener said recently that when the Miles case comes up for trial, trial is expected to come up in November, before Judge Hamilton.

The Miles case is being handled by the police, and the people of St. Louis may rest assured that it will be vigorously prosecuted."

ARREST FOR EXTORTION IN JEWEL THEFT

Detectives Watch Secretary Give Money to Man Who Claimed to Have Information.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The first arrest in the $100,000 jewel robbery in the home of Miss Edith Bobe, fashionable modiste, late Monday night, took place last night when detectives arrested a man who said he was Montague Pike, 29, a civil engineer, on a charge of extortion. According to detectives, he offered to tell Miss Irene Flaherty, secretary to Miss Bobe, where the missing jewels could be found if she would pay $400 for the information.

The police say Pike admitted serving a four-year sentence at Sing Sing for grand larceny. He declared he knew nothing about the jewels but thought he could convince Miss Bobe's secretary that he did.

Recovered Telephone Call.

Miss Flaherty was said to have received a telephone call from a man who offered to reveal the disposition of the stolen jewelry for $400. Miss Flaherty agreed to meet him at a corner near the Bobe house.

She did so and walked along with him while detectives across the street watched her hand him a roll of bills. They arrested him when she turned to walk away.

Miss Bobe is said to have come from Detroit 12 years ago. She was then Edith Weeks. She went to work as a cutter in a cloak and suit factory, but soon opened a little millinery shop of her own on Broadway. It was not long before she had one of the ultra-fashionshops in the city. Her change of name from Weeks to Bobe has not been explained.

Police learned today that two weeks ago four persons, all socially prominent, were waylaid in the hallway of an apartment house in Fifth avenue and robbed of $1,000 worth of jewelry. Seymour

Ehrich, son of Samuel Ehrich, a reputed millionaire, was a member of the party.

Want List of Guests.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The police would like a list of those guests at Miss Edith Bobe's party, held in her establishment Saturday night. She declined to give the list to the police, saying she would vouch for the innocence of all the guests.

Detectives were particularly interested to learn whether one or two men whom they have reason to suspect attended that party. She refused to give them that information in previous interviews, police say.

Since the release of Miles from his brief detention at Police Headquarters Monday afternoon, the weather has been cool and the reception to the army round-the-world flyers at St. Joseph, Mo., today by Lieut. Lee Duncan, who left for that city in one of the unit's planes yesterday.

It was originally planned to have four planes piloted by local aviators meet the world flyers as they approached St. Joseph, but last minute changes in the time of arrival of Lieut. Smith and his comrades in the world flight made it impossible to get more than one of the Observation Squadron's planes in condition for the trip. Lieut. Duncan stopped at Jefferson City en route to St. Joseph.

Lieut. Fred C. Nelson, regular aviator-instructor of the unit, will act as pilot for Gen. Rauppa at the reception to the world flyers. He left for Kansas City yesterday to pick up Gen. Rauppa, who has been designated by Gov. Hyde to welcome the army flyers on behalf of the State.

The purpose in looking for Schaefer Monday was that he might look at Miles and state whether he would be able to identify him.

DECLARES SLAYERS HAD LAID PREVIOUS TRAP FOR FARMER

Mother of Dead Man Says Attempt Was Made by Pair Before to Kill Him.

Jacob Landert and Elmo Wernil prisoners at Edwardsville who have confessed murdering John Nungesser, Madison County (Ill.) farmer, last Monday afternoon upon Emil Fricker's offer to pay them $250 apiece for the assassination, had previously made an attempt to take the man's life according to a statement made yesterday by Mrs. Fred Nungesser, mother of the slain man.

Mrs. Nungesser told officers at Highland that Landert and Wernil, farmhand and son-in-law, respectively, of Fricker, tried two weeks ago to induce Nungesser to join them in dynamiting a fish pond. Her son, she said, suspected a trap and refused to participate. Since then, Nungesser, fearing for his life, had been arranging to move to another farm in Clinton County and was living from that place Monday when he was waylaid and shot to death on the road.

Three Held Without Bail.

A coroner's verdict of homicide, recommending that Fricker, Landert and Wernil be held for the Madison County grand jury without bail, was returned yesterday at an inquest into Nungesser's death. The hearing, which six witnesses examined, was devoted chiefly to the confessions made to Sheriff E. R. Detmeling and Deputy Sheriff Thomas C. Dooner by Landert and Wernil, and circumstances leading to the arrest of the three men early Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Minnie Nungesser, widow of the murdered farmer, did not take the stand and no testimony bearing on a possible motive for the crime was heard. The case is expected to be taken up by the grand jury when they next convene at Edwardsville next Monday.

Landert and Wernil revolved with which Landert and Wernil riddled Nungesser's body after he had fallen from his wagon dying with a bullet through the abdomen, were found yesterday in an oats bin at Landert's home, which is near the Nungesser farm, and exhibited at the inquest. Sheriff Detmeling found the weapons to be of .32 and one of .25 caliber, where Landert had said in his confession yesterday night that the gun had been hidden. The victim's body was found to bear at least 10 bullet wounds.

Denies Connection With Crime.

Fricker, who is 44 years old and well-to-do, still denies connection with the crime and refuses to discuss Mrs. Nungesser's statement that he owes her more than $1,000 in back wages for work on his farm before her marriage and that she had experienced trouble recently in making collections of monthly payments provided in an agreement made a year ago. The confession of Landert and Wernil also fail to make clear the reason why Fricker had used threats and then promises to pay to induce them to "help get rid of Nungesser."

Following her husband's death, however, Mrs. Nungesser told the officers and newspaper reporters that she had been hounded by Fricker for 13 years and that he had tried repeatedly to induce her to return to his employment which she left upon her marriage to Nungesser two years ago.

Father Husband Shot to Death.

She had been working for Fricker and his wife when she was 15 years old, she said, serving as a farm hand as well as a housemaid, and first incurred her employer's anger when in 1920 she married Robert Kehrl, another employee at the Fricker farm, which is in Clinton County, seven miles northeast of the Nungesser home. A month after the marriage Kehrl was found shot to death in a field. A discharged weapon was found beside his body and a coroner's jury attributed his death to suicide. The widow then continued in Fricker's employment until two years ago.

Upon her marriage to Nungesser, she said, Fricker became hostile toward her husband and once, when she visited the place to ask for her wages, held him a prisoner for three days in an effort to get her to leave Nungesser. Since that time, according to her story, both she and her husband had lived in fear of her former employer.

125 DIPLOMAS AWARDED TO G. O. P. WOMEN AFTER COURSE Three Day School of Political Instruction Ends With Final Examination.

Diplomas were awarded last night to approximately 125 women who attended all sessions of the Republican Woman's Club's three-day school of political instruction at Hotel Statler. Final examinations were given yesterday afternoon. All students obtained a passing grade, it was announced.

The examination required written answers to seven questions. The questions follow: "Give an outline of an effective public meeting. Give some of the fundamental differences between the two major parties. Name one outstanding Republican president and give his greatest achievement. Name one outstanding Republican Governor of your State and give his greatest achievement. Give your idea of effective ward work. How is this Government financed? What part of this program have you found to be most helpful for campaign purposes?"

Answers to the questions were not made public. Representatives of the Republican National Committee assisted in conduct of the school, which is similar to others held in various large cities. The school closed with a dinner at Hotel Statler last night.

BOBBED HER HAIR AND WAS AFRAID TO TELL HUSBAND

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pultizer Publishing Co., Inc., Post-Dispatch World.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—The whole town of Vernon-Sur-Seine was horrified at the tale told by a beautiful bride of eight days of how a ruffian in the absence of her husband broke into her home, brutalized her, torn her clothes, bound and gagged her, struck her and worst indignity of all—cut off her lovely golden locks.

The police had mobilized in the search for the aggressor when a medical examination revealed the strange fact that the assault had not left the faintest bruise on the girl's body. Cross-examined by a magistrate, the girl confessed she had invented the story to explain why her hair had become suddenly bobbed, despite her husband's opposition. The fear of hubby's anger led her to make the whole scene after a visit to the barber.

HUNDREDS REPORTED KILLED IN ARMENIAN EARTHQUAKE

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.—An earthquake last Saturday destroyed 102 villages and killed hundreds of persons, according to a dispatch received by the Turkish Government from Erzerum, Armenia.

The Red Cross has dispatched aid to the stricken region. Brief newspaper dispatches give only meager reports of the disaster.

The total number of deaths, the dispatches add, is unknown. Some accounts say 114 bodies were recovered in the ruins of 21 villages. Details from other places have not yet reached Constantinople. There have been recurrent shocks since the big quake on Saturday.

Prayer Swindle Costs Man $325

Italian Loses Money to Two Fellow Countrymen in Old Game.

"An old swindle with new variations," was the comment of police today, after listening to the sorrowful story of Joe Morelli, who was to be given $5,000 in exchange for nightly prayers, but who lost $325 instead. One of the variations was the casual mention of the name of Archbishop Glennon.

Morelli, who is 30 years old and an insurance agent, was sitting in his coupe at Jefferson and Olive streets yesterday morning when another Italian came along, introduced himself as Frank Calando, and began to discuss the World War and Mussolini. The chat had progressed to the subject of religion, when a third Italian, who said he was Louis Prissi, stopped for a minute and joined in.

"Fine!" exclaimed Prissi, when he said, "Why? Well, he was taking $25,000 out to Archbishop Glennon's home. Prissi's father had left that sum for masses for him. Also, he had left $10,000 to the son."

Would Pay for Prayers.

Now, Prissi was looking for two good men who would pray each night for the senior Prissi. The junior Prissi would give each half of the $10,000. Calando and Morelli volunteered to pray, for $500 each.

"This is no place to discuss such a sacred matter," Prissi said, so the three rode out to Fairmount Park. The coupe had a blowout on the way, and Prissi, to show his wealth, bought Morelli a new tire and tube and promised him a new car later.

The two who were to pray for his dead father must be thrifty and not waste their $5,000, Prissi specified.

"I'm thrifty. I've saved $3000," Calando declared, displaying a wallet of greenbacks. "So am I," asserted Morelli. "I'll go out home and get it."

Borrows Money.

Morelli got $20. From neighbors he borrowed $305 more. Then he hurried back to 825 North Grand boulevard, the address given by Calando. It was a vacant lot. At the hotel at Grand boulevard and Olive, Morelli, who had given it as his home, was not known.

Morelli looked in the fat wallet. It contained a roll of neat newspaper clippings wrapped in four $1 bills.

BABY'S LIPS ROUGED IN COURT:

Judge Makes Threat to Couple Who Impropriety.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The application of a lipstick and a powder puff by a 2 1/2-year-old baby, while in the courtroom, as well as the charges of adultery and impropriety made against each other by her parents caused Supreme Court Justice Levy yesterday to indicate he would order the child taken from the custody of both unless they effect a reconciliation.

The father of the child is Courtland M. Young, magazine publisher, and the mother is Dorothy Campbell Young, former Follies girl.

Young had instituted habeas corpus proceedings for possession of the child, in which he accused the mother of being unfit morally to rear her.

Miss Young, on the stand yesterday, denied all allegations of immorality. She declared that Young was addicted to drink and that when intoxicated he was so abusive that she had to leave him and go to her mother.

"It was Mr. Young who taught me to drink," she said.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR WARRIOR RIVER LINE

Suitable Terminals and Steel Barges Will Be Supplied.

The Government barge line on the Warrior River is about to be put on its feet by suitable terminals, a railroad connection to Birmingham, and the delivery by Oct. 15 of 28 steel barges. Brigadier-General Thomas Q. Ashburn, manager of the Inland Waterways Corporation, announces.

Half the barges have been delivered. Two years ago Brigadier-General Ashburn said that the Warrior River service could not be a success without a large fleet of small barges, and recommended building of such a fleet. These of 3500-ton capacity each, were purchased from the Tennessee Iron and Coal Co. at considerably less than the cost of building new barges.

Terminals along the line are being fitted up to meet the surge of traffic expected. The Tuscaloosa terminal is undergoing a thorough remodeling. Through rail connection has been established with the Birmingham industrial districts.

This will permit the inauguration of a fast package service, through Birmingham, Tuscaloosa and New Orleans, connecting there with the Mississippi line and its fast package service to Memphis and St. Louis.

Brigadier-General Ashburn expects a profitable traffic for transshipment to the St. Louis-New Orleans line not only from the cotton which will be adequately served for the first time, but from the cotton garments that will be tapped around Corolla. St. Louis merchants and manufacturers will be able to ship their products by the package service all the way to Birmingham in a time proportionate to that consumed by the fast service to New Orleans.

PSEUDO INSPECTOR SOUGHT

FOR $10,000 MAIL THEFT

Package of Currency Taken From Pouch in Michigan by Man Posed as Postal Agent.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 18.—A package of $10,000 in gold coins is being sought by Federal authorities in connection with the disappearance of a package containing $10,000 in currency from a registered mail pouch at Mt. Clemens, last Friday. It became known today.

Burley Parsons, agent at the Grand Trunk Railway Station in Mount Clemens told Inspectors that a stranger, representing himself to be an inspector and presenting credentials, obtained access to the pouch shortly after it was delivered at the station. The man, according to Parsons, presented a letter from the Postmaster at Mt. Clemens, ordering him to turn the pouch over the the bearer.

The stranger, Parsons said, explained that he had been sent to correct a mistake that had been made in the Postoffice. The pouch was turned over to the supposed inspector, who returned it 10 minutes later, Parsons said. When it reached Detroit it was discovered that a package containing $10,000 was missing.

LEADERS ASSAILEDBook Centers Fire on Republicans, but Also Attacks Records of Democrats Under Wilson.Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-22 Wyatt Building.WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Carrying their fight directly to President Coolidge, the La Follette campaign managers charge the President with being the "principal" mentioned in the telegram addressed by Ira E. Bennett of the Washington Post to Edward H. Mc-Lean, its publisher, during the investigation of the oil scandal.The charge is made in the La Follette campaign text book, the first series of which is issued this week.The linking of the President with the oil disclosures made in the text book is but part of the vigorous attack made by La Follette managers upon the administration.In this book the administration is reviewed from every angle and a series of sensational indictments is registered. Thirty-nine such different departments are reviewed, including the Departments of Commerce, Interior, Justice, Treasury, War, Post Office, and Agriculture, and the Veterans Bureau.The nature of the charges and the manner in which they are made indicates the campaign is to be a struggle without quarter.Cabinet Members Named.
The names mentioned in these attacks include Secretaries Weeks, Hughes, Hoover and Mellon, and by implication Secretaries Newton and Wallace, Senators Smith and Jones, and former Representatives Philip Campbell of Kansas, and among the Democrats former Attorney-General Palmer, former Secretary of War Baker, Francis P.
Garvin and others.The pages bristle with the names of Harry M. Daugherty, Heber Vo-taw, brother-in-law of President Harding, Albert B. Fall, Edwin W.
Denby, the late Jesse Smith, "Jap" Muma, Howard Mannington, A. R.
L. Doheney, Charles R. Forbes,
Edward H. McLean, Theodore and Archie Roosevelt, William J.
Burns, C. Bascom Stemp, and others.The Democrats are included in the charges brought, the Wilson administration being assailed because of the administration of the Department of Justice by Palmer.
In the Hog Island episode, the fallout of American airplanes to arrive on time in France, the "cost plus" system used during the war, conduct of the Shipping Board and so forth. But the burden of the attack is directed against the Harding-Coolidge administration.

Reference to "Principal" Message.

The charge that President Coolidge was the "principal" in the Bennett message sent to McLean, the publisher, on Jan. 29, 1924, is made without qualification. No additional proof other than that which developed in the investigation however, is produced. The telegram is produced."Raw principal. Delivered message. Highly appreciated and seems rewards to you and Mrs.
McLean. There will be no rocking of the boat and no resignation. He expects reaction from unwaranted political attacks.""Popular conjecture," advance notice of the La Follette text book says. "Immediately fastened on President Coolidge as the 'principal'. There was confusion and hasty conferring in administration circles. Then Bennett testified before the Senate Committee that the 'principal' was Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican whip of the Senate. Senator Curtis flatly denied in a public statement that he had ever told Bennett anything.""Other explanations were given, but the definite identity of the 'principal' remained a mystery."

Basis of Charge.

"A number of circumstances indicated that the 'principal' was Mr. Coolidge. The fact that two weeks previous C. Bascom Stemp, private secretary to President Coolidge, went to Palm Beach to visit McLean; that President Coolidge had wired McLean 'Prescott is away. Admire Stemp with whom I shall confer on the subject' and to this McLean's lawyer, Homan, had advised him to employ Stemp as his public operator for his private wire, so McLean could have

Return to "Principal" Message.

made without qualification. No ad-

Many Scandals Alleged.

While recalling the oil scandal, La Follette commences his fortuitous, this telegram clearly indicates that while Mr. Coolidge was making a gesture in support of the oil investigation, he was in reality
in sympathy with those who sought to discredit the investigation as
"unwarranted political attacks" and gave the aid of his high office to men who admit that they conspired with and lied to protect the chief criminals in the case."

Attack on State Department.

The State Department is attacked on the ground that the oil magnates and international bankers have exerted influence in thesettlements with Mexico and with Panama, and in relations with other Latin-American countries are pointed out as "indicative of the subservience of the State Department to big business."

Other Explanations Given.

The attack is brought home again to the President with a direct challenge: "Did Coolidge know?" It is asked: "and if he did know, why has he been inactive in rooting out the rotteness which he inherited?" If he did know, can he justify his appeal to the people to put him in supreme charge of these executive departments of the Government?"Giving attention to the Coolidge Cabinet, the progressive leaders charge that the appointment of Andrew W. Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury was unlawful, and that his public operator for his private wire, so McLean could havequick and easy access to the White House—alleged unlawful within the meaning of the law.LA FOLLETTE DENIES HIS AIM IS TO THROW ELECTION OF PRESIDENT INTO CONGRESSIndependent Candidate, in Editorial, Asserts Progressives Have Opportunity to Win by Substantial Majority at Polls.Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MADISON, Wis., Sept. 18.—In an editorial in the current issue of his newspaper, Senator Robert M. La Follette emphatically denies that the progressives hope only to throw the presidential election into Congress. The independent leaders concede no possibility of having the election go to Congress,
La Follette declares.He points to the big vote for Woodrow Wilson with his espousal of progressive principles similar to those now advocated by the independent candidates. The election of progressives to Congress shows that progressivism has not died since La Follette declares.The Wisconsin Senator points out that Woodrow Wilson was elected when he campaigned with statements such as "The Government of the United States in recent years has not been administered by the common people of the United States. The Government of the United States at present is a foundation of special interests. It is not allowed to have a will of its own. Our Government has been for the past few years under the control of the heads of great allied corporations with special interests.""Progressive Political Upheaval."
"Day by day it becomes increasingly apparent that victory is within the grasp of the progressive citizenship of this country and that Nov. 4 will witness a political upheaval, restoring to the American people the control of their own Government," La Follette declares."The truth is that if this country is today as progressive as it was in 1912 or in 1922, there will be no
deadlock in the electoral college.
On the contrary, the progressives
will win this election by a substantial majority.""At this time no limit can be placed upon the strength which the progressives will muster on Nov. 4.

Overcome Serious Obstacles.

"It must be conceded that the progressives have met—and overcome—serious obstacles threatening their success. We have had to spend precious time and money simply to obtain a place on the ballot. We are in the midst of our first campaign as a political unit distinct from the old parties. We have been compelled to base our platforms on the progressive movement."The truth is that if this country is today as progressive as it was in 1912 or in 1922, there will be no
deadlock in the electoral college.
On the contrary, the progressives
will win this election by a substantial majority."

Responsibility for Deadlock.

"No statement of our purpose could be farther from the truth.
The progressive millions of America have at this time the best opportunity of a generation to regain control, not only of Congress, but of the executive branch of their government. The progressives are in this campaign to enable the people to take full advantage of that opportunity."Whatever prospects there may be of a deadlock in the Electoral College—and the progressives concede no such probability—the responsibility for a deadlock, should it ensue, must rest squarely upon the Republican and Democratic parties."Throughout the last two sessions of Congress the progressivesHouse were regarded as significant."The progressives have now flatly challenged Mr. Coolidge with being the 'principal' referred to in the telegram. According to the progressives, this telegram clearly indicates that while Mr. Coolidge was making a gesture in support of the
oil investigation, he was in reality
in sympathy with those who sought
to discredit the investigation as
"unwarranted political attacks" and
gave the aid of his high office to
men who admit that they conspired
with and lied to protect the chief criminals in the case."The broadside cites the appointments of Former Attorney-General Gregory and Silas Strawn as especial counsel the day the telegram was sent, appointments later rejected by the Senate, as further corroboration of their charges.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Question for Mr. Coolidge.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Sunday evening Post-Dispatch contained the following heading:

"Cost of Living Increases With Revival of Business." Later on, in its article, one hundred country-wide returns showed that the Bureau of Labor Statistics and soon to be made public, are expected to show a noticeable increase all along the line since last spring. The chief increase, it is believed, has been registered in prices of foodstuffs.

In his speech on Labor day, Mr. Coolidge asserted that wages should keep pace with the cost of living. We ask

Mr. Coolidge why he doesn't practice what he preaches.

Last June, when the postal salary bill came up before the House for consideration, even though he had all the information necessary to show that the cost of living was far in excess of the wages of postal employees, he evidently did not then think that wages should keep pace with living costs, as much to the disappointment of some 350,000 postal employees throughout the country, he vetoed the bill without any good reason.

The reason he gave was that no provision was made whereby the revenue could be raised to pay this increase. Never before in the history of the country has any provision been made to raise revenue to pay salary increases. Also, how is it when Mr. Coolidge saw fit to veto the salaries of the different officials in the postoffice a short time ago, from $5000 to $7500, he then did not worry about where the money would come from?

A week or so after the postal salary bill was vetoed, Mr. Coolidge granted a salary increase to the school teachers and firemen of Washington, D. C. Why, Mr. President, was this?

Mr. Coolidge is sincere in what he says, let him call an extra session of Congress and give the postal workers an increase necessary to meet the increased cost of living.

I am afraid that if something isn't done along these lines soon, Mr. Coolidge will have to ask Henry Ford for the old sap bucket again, as he will need it after March 4.

"SAY IT WITH VOTES."

Calendar Medallions.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE proposal to change the calendar to 13 months of four weeks each may be good policy, but it looks like landlord propaganda.

To nothing of the dead level motionality of it.

Now comes the Fourth of July always coming on the same day of the week, and never on a Friday or a Monday, thereby giving countless thousands the opportunity of getting three holidays in a chunk.

I propose that these calendar tamperers be given a real job.

SATISFIED.

Abusing the Stop Signal.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I happened at the ubiquitous railroad crossing, an especially hazardous one. The track was perhaps six or seven feet above the level of the road, with an exceedingly short approach on either side. The driver of the car, however, had no caution exercised in the attempt of crossing here. About two rods from the place where we were, when the car ahead of us crossed the track, just before the rear end of this car vanished from our vision, this well-meaning driver flashed his "Stop" at us. Watching the crossing, and yet, naturally enough, catching the "Stop" out of the corner of the eye, attention was diverted away from the crossing to the car, which might be in some predicament at the bottom of the other approach. Our thoughts were with the friend on the other side of the railroad, who advanced, reached the track, and got across, too. Let me assure you that THAT WAS ALL.

Seeing the other driver a good way ahead of us, we speculated as to the meaning of his stop signal. Seeing no apparent reason, we looked around, and, don't you know, a quarter of a block away was a fast passenger train, coming for the crossing. A trifle of a delay and this would not have been written. The good fellow meant to warn us, and had it not been for the Almighty God he would have been our executioner.

Judge Caverly's Decision.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

REGARDLESS of our personal ideas of capital punishment through religious beliefs or otherwise, the decision given by Judge Caverly in the Frank case will be directly the cause of hundreds of minor and major crimes during the next year throughout the world.

This decision simply means that every law-abiding person must use more care in their movements, or, in other words become more suspicious and doubtful of their fellow man.

There must be, and there will be, a stop to the swinging of this pendulum of crime, and while I appreciate the position of Judge Caverly, and have no reason to wish to see either Leopold or Loebe start the back-swing of this pendulum, still it seems that owing to the wide publicity of this case that a ten strike could have been made in the partial correction of crime by a decision which they were certainly justly entitled to.

EXPLOITING THE CONSTITUTION.

The Constitution is not only the bulwark of the rights and liberties of the people, but it seems to be rapidly becoming the bulwark of the Republican party's hold on the Government.

Mr. Dawes is making sweeping charges of bolshevism, socialism and sinister intent to undermine and destroy the Constitution and American institutions against everybody who is opposed to things as they are, to the conditions that exist in Washington.

Now comes Solicitor-General Beck with fervid denunciation not only of the radicals who want to change the Constitution, but of the Democrats, or the flimsy pretext that because the latter propose to take the sense of the people on the League of Nations through a referendum, they are going outside of the Constitution. The Constitution neither forbids nor authorizes a popular vote on any question; it says nothing about it. But in Mr. Beck's view any party that wants to discover what the people think on an issue lying within the province of the Federal Government is flouting the Constitution. Evidently Mr. Beck is afraid of the people. At least he is going a long way out of his way to stretch the Constitution so that no method by which their will may be made known on a Federal question can be found which would not tend to impair the foreign to his practice.

We are glad to receive and note the correction, because the Post-Dispatch was laboring under an erroneous impression of the law. We do not want to be unjust to Attorney-General Barrett, whose record in office has been marked by fairness and devotion to public service.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL BARRETT'S BOND RULING.

State Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett takes exception to a statement in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, editorial on the road program, in which his opinion that $10,000,000 of road bonds could be issued this year was designated as "a political ruling." The editorial stated under the law only $5,000,000 of road bonds could be issued in a year.

Mr. Barrett explains that we must have confused the law of 1921 with the amendment of 1923, which provides that bonds shall be issued "not to exceed $10,000,000 in 1924 and 1925." He construed this to mean that during that period $10,000,000 could be issued without respect to particular years. This construction was approved by the able bond lawyers and the bonds were sold at an unusually good price. He declares that this was a strictly legal opinion and not in any sense a political ruling, which is wholly foreign to his practice.

We are glad to receive and note the correction, because the Post-Dispatch was laboring under an erroneous impression of the law. We do not want to be unjust to Attorney-General Barrett, whose record in office has been marked by fairness and devotion to public service.

A HOUSEHOLD FACE.

In a certain sense the former Governor of Massachusetts who died the other day was the most famous man of his period. If fame could be measured by the number of times a man's name and picture are printed, then surely W. L. Douglas would hold premier place. For several decades his name, designating the shoes he manufactured, and accompanied always by a likeness of the manufacturer, has been carried constantly in newspaper advertising throughout the United States and beyond. His face may be said to have become, even before the twentieth century opened, a household face.

There may be those who would contend for the late citizen who made the celebrated facial soap, or even for the still-living gentleman whose genius inaugurated the safety-razor age. They also used their own handsome physiognomies in their broadcast advertising; but neither of them measures up to premier in consistency of paid publicity along with W. L. Douglas.

Mr. Douglas now takes his place in the Valhalla of the immortals alongside of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, who, though long dead, yet speaketh through her speaking likeness in the advertising columns. His one term as Governor was but an insignificant incident in his career. His fame and his fortune were created by his integrity as a manufacturer and his wisdom as an advertiser. As Gov. Douglas he has become already a dim memory, but in "W. L. Douglas Shoes" his name and fame will go stepping proudly down the corridors of time.

OUR BIG NEW MONKEY HOUSE.

Among St. Louis' biggest things must now be included the latest addition to our world-famed zoo—the biggest and best monkey house in the world.

This is worth heralding to the farthest corners of the land. For it will give the evolutionists and the anti-evolutionists the best opportunity to study their respective theories or dogmas. Big monkeys and little monkeys, dog-faced baboons, mandrills, chacmabs, marmosets, howling monkeys and spider monkeys, tree denizens and rock roarmers, gibbons, said to be the nearest approach to the fossil genus Pithecanthropus, will all be there to furnish their evidence or lack of evidence as to man's origin.

College professors may come on excursions from near and far, with their students, to look for the nearest approach to the missing link. And anti-evolutionist preachers will not have to buy or borrow monkeys to take into the pulpit on a Sunday—a meager way to obtain an object lesson. They can bring their congregations to this abode of so many of the manlike or unmanlike brutes that they will be sure to find some specimens to back up their sermons.

Next to the primeval forest, a well-kept monkey house is the best place to study the simian tribe. Come one, come all, and be convinced. And don't forget to scare your friend Joe, so he is alleged to have anounced to Joe's wife, that a man convinced an embankment, with the fatal results indicated in against his will is of the same opinion still."

ROCKING THE AUTOBOAT.

The fools we have always with us. Some of them are comparatively harmless, but many of them are potential perils, like the insidious cholera germ or the deadly cobra. One never knows just where they are going to break out. We have in mind a citizen who suffers from neuritis in the left shoulder. The other day a fool smote him smack upon that shoulder, shouting simultaneously: "Well, old scoundrel, how's the rheumatis now?" We are advised that the hilarious outburst of the fool outblasted even the beat of agony evoked by the fool's blow.

In this city a widow has filed suit against a man who, she alleges, was responsible for the death of her husband and for serious injuries to herself because he rocked the autoboat. In other words, when he was driving an automobile in which the man and wife were riding, he "zigzagged" the car, just to scare his friend Joe, so he is alleged to have announced to Joe's wife, that a man convinced an embankment, with the fatal results indicated in against his will is of the same opinion still."

Missouri has 23,500 empty farm houses. That is how farming has been doing. Twenty-eight thousand, five hundred farms upon which the occupants could not make a living.

There are the farm houses—empty.

They stand staring at the morning sun with their boarded-up windows.

Unpainted.

Silent.

Desolate.

Deserted.

They are told in the present campaign that there is no farm problem.

They have dollar corn.

Wheat is worth $1.25.

Hogs and cattle are up.

The farm is booming.

It is said by the Republicans that because of improved times Republican losses in the farm states will not be so heavy as they would otherwise have been.

Charlie Dawes is running about telling the farmers how well-off they are.

How plentiful money is among them.

How bright the future under Mr. Coolidge.

Charlie ought to know.

He is a banker.

He farms loans and discounts.

But there are the 28,500 vacant farm houses in Missouri!

Incapable of sophistry, they stand there in blunt testimony to the truth.

They do not know how to make the worse side appear the better, as Socrates said the sophists did.

They can only make the worse side appear the worse.

The yards around them high in weeds.

Their musical dinner bells mute.

Their unkept chimneys peering through the broken trees.

Now the sound of a woman's voice.

Or children's laughter.

A mooing cow.

Or a bawling calf.

A man whistling.

Or a dog barking.

Only silence multiplied 28,500 times.

Deep.

Profound.

Unanswerable.

Damning.

Saying nothing but still telling its terrible story.

So there IS a farm problem.

And nobody at least will wheedle these empty farm houses into believing there isn't one.

They know better.

Begging Cal's pardon and Charlie's.

And day after day they say so.

The 28,500 empty farm houses.

Shouting to the passherry as only an empty farm house can.

Sir: Don't you think the Government would save a lot of money if they'd place little slot machines on everybody's front door to collect the tariff tax—and every time a man would go to the store to buy anything from some minor to sox he could put his little tax in the box? Then the mailman could collect the tax and save a lot of other departments and collectors—and FOLKS COULD SEE WHO PAYS THE TARIFF—
AND VOTE FOR DAVIS! — C. N. T. R.

If the League of Nations really means to punish war-making, it can begin with telling Spain that she can't whip the Moroccans and will have to admit it.

A correspondent says we can put him in the way of winning a bet by publishing a poem he sends us, but the man on the other end of the wager seems to have the better literary judgment.

Someone says that Charlie Dawes has a habit speaking pointblank. If he means by this that Charlie hasn't made a point yet, we have noticed it too.

Police Rescue Him From Friendly Demonstrators;

at Work.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Prince of Wales, motoring from Sposset, L. L. paid his respects to Manhattan again today. Arriving in the financial district shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, Wales found that his plans for an afternoon of sightseeing incognito were likely to be frustrated, for thousands of persons, many of them stenographers on their lunch-hour strolls, gave him a rousing welcome as he left his car at 60 Broadway.

The crowd was so great that for two minutes the Prince was unable to leave his machine to keep a luncheon appointment with Harrison Williams. Finally several policemen came to the assistance of his bodyguard and elbowed a way through the throng.

Prince Appears Startled.

The Prince, smoking a cigarette, appeared startled by the noisy demonstration. Ticker tape poured upon the royal visitor from the windows of skyscrapers. Four policemen forced their way to the rear door, when he was whisked into the office of Harris & Williams, on the nineteenth floor, by special elevator. Arriving at the Harris & Williams office, the Prince shook hands with the four policemen. He then was introduced to a dozen financiers. From the nineteenth floor the Prince proceeded to the twenty-first, where he had luncheon as a guest of the Recess Club. For several minutes he gazed from the windows, which afford an excellent view of downtown New York, and the harbor.

The crowd became so dense that the police of three precincts were called out to handle the congestion. Broadway and Exchange Place to all stages were jammed so that automobiles were forced to detour and surface cars found difficulty in getting through.

Plans to Come Again.

The Prince of Wales is anxious,

it was learned today, to return to the United States at a later date to visit the great industrial centers and farming communities, to become acquainted, at first hand with industrial conditions and to meet American working men and women.

The contemplated tour of factories and farms would be similar to the one he has made in the industrial cities of Great Britain, since the war, when he spent long periods going through workshops and talking with the people employed in them.

The People, Not the Plant.

On these trips in the manufacturing towns of the English midlands the Prince often remarked to his companions: "It's the people, not the plant, that I want to see."

The making of friendships, and extensive acquaintance with men in all parts of the world, and a personal knowledge of conditions in foreign countries, is naturally an important element in the education of a future King of Great Britain and of the Dominions.

During the tour he will consider his most important business today and those that will help him to exercise his great office more than any other type of education could do.

other. It is a truism that no tax is popular except a tax which is paid by someone else, and the greatest problem which can confront any statesman is to devise a system of taxation fair and equitable in its distribution of burdens, moderate in its demands and adequate for the support and maintenance of the state.

The Democratic party maintains that the only purpose of all just taxation is to raise the revenue necessary for the efficient and economical discharge of the functions of government. It realizes that it is impossible to collect by taxation thousands of millions of dollars without greatly affecting the production activities, the consumption habits and the economic life of the whole country; but it believes that the price of these incidental consequences to their proper place, and should not make them the cardinal aim of any tax or system of taxes which it may impose. It views taxation as a necessary burden and not as a means of political control, and it holds that the only safe principle is the distribution of this burden among all classes of the people in proportion to their ability to bear it. No government or party that abandons this principle has ever yet been able to resist the influence of those classes, sections or political factions who seek to promote their own interests at the expense of the National welfare.

Preference in Taxation.

"Ancient and obvious as these truths seem, it is necessary to restate and insist upon them, for the Republican party has set up other principles for its guidance. In dealing with the tariff and in framing internal taxation, it has chosen to depart entirely from the principles of justice and equity in distributing their burdens. It is the cardinal doctrine of that party that the purpose of raising revenue may be completed subordinated to that of dispensing benefits to certain favored industries and classes, with the inevitable result that the influence and importance of seekers for advantage, and the exigencies of party politics rather than the demands of the public treasury, become the decisive factors."

"It is the conception of the Republican party that taxation may be utilized to compel contributions by the public not only to the national Treasury but to selected beneficiaries, with the hope that the prosperity of the latter may some how filter down to the community as a whole."

Praises Low Tariff.

Davis declared that the Democratic Underwood-Simmons was framed "on a truly competitive basis" and was the only tariff law of this generation to which "no taint of corruption or undue political influence attached." When the Republican party came into power it proceeded to "carry out personal pledges and campaign promises" by passing a tariff law "far exceeding in its extortions any that ever been placed upon the statute books."

"Lobbies representing greedy manufacturers," he said, "swarmed into the nation's capital and wrote their own excessive and extortionate rates, in utter disregard of every theory, whether that of revenue or protection itself."

Pointing to the plight of Republican orators who now have to praise this tariff act, Davis said:

"In plain fact, it was economic madness and political destruction. That it should raise the cost of living and exploit the public for the

INCREASE IN EMPLOYMENT

Industrial Payrolls Also Show Gain for August.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Employment in manufacturing industries in August showed an increase over July of 2 per cent. This is the first increase in employment shown by monthly comparisons since March. The earnings of employees in August increased 3.7 per cent, and per capita earnings increased 3.5 per cent, this being the first month since February in which employment, total earnings and per capita earnings have all shown increases over the preceding month.

The return to work in August of employees who were on vacation in July was more than offset by the large number of employees who were reported on vacation in August, therefore the increase in employment in August is a veritable change from the decreases which, with two exceptions, have appeared each month since June, 1923. These unweighted, preliminary figures presented by the United States Department of Labor Statistics are based on reports from 8555 establishments in 52 industries, covering 2,425,229 employees, whose total earnings during one week in August were $61,632,420. The same establishments in July reported 2,442,592 employees and total payrolls of $58,849,252.

Five of the nine geographic divisions show increases in employment and each of the nine shows a considerable gain in payroll totals.

Reports from the Interstate Commerce Commission show a decrease on June 15, 1924, in all employees on Class I railroads, excluding executives and officials, of 1.2 per cent as compared with May 15, 1924, and a decrease of 7.5 per cent as compared with June 15, 1923. There was a decrease of 4.5

manufacturers' benefit was, of course, what was intended. The duties on men's clothing were 15 per cent above the level of 1914; on women's dress goods trebled; on cotton hosiery increased 75 per cent; on household furniture tripled; and so on down the line.

Holocaust for Farmer.—Its effect on agriculture was immediate and disastrous. During 1920 we exported $3,464,000 worth of agricultural products. In 1923, this great volume of exports shrank to one half that figure.

Year in and year out, we had been exporting from 12 to 20 per cent of our annual production. Among these exports were 20 to 25 per cent of our wheat, 8 to 15 per cent of our meat products, 40 per cent of our tobacco and 60 per cent of our cotton. Is it any wonder that the price of these commodities declined when we refused to permit our foreign customers to pay for them with the product of their hands?

"It is not an inappropriate time to remind the farmer and the country that an excessively high tariff not only does not create a sound permanent prosperity, but breeds temporary artificial and unnatural conditions in our business and economic affairs; that it does not cure or prevent disease, but that on the contrary, creates public beginning with the one in 1873, has occurred under a Republican administration or under Republican laws.

The Fordney-McCumber act has inflicted hardship and sacrifice upon all the people of the United States, and has made the burden heaviest for those least able to bear it. It has tended to divert labor and capital from beneficial and profitable enterprise into industries ill adapted to American conditions. It has over-stimulated other industries and encouraged an expansion which could endure only at a cost necessitating prices for their products which the public is unable to pay. It has restricted the market abroad for American agriculture and American industries.

"I insist," he said, "that that great act of national honor shall be performed without further delay."

But he could not believe, he went on, that the world court was enough.

"There must be something more than that. There must be a machinery by which the common and collective judgment of mankind may be brought, not into occasional, not into causal, not into accidental conference, but regularly and as a part of the normal life of nations."

Lesson of World Flight.

Davis then took a text from the passage of the round-the-world flyers over the Pyrenees.

"I saw a sight today which was a sermon by itself," he said. "Over your beautiful city today, I saw three great aircraft move, in triangular formation, as stately and majestic as if it were the moment before that they had come out from their hangars.

"Where did they come from? Why, they had circumnavigated this entire globe. They had made the entire circumference of the earth. They had looked upon the faces of men and women, of yellow and black, of civilized and uncivilized, of mountain and desert, and ocean and plain; and they had done it in what was measured in terms of 100 years ago was but the twinkling of an eye."

"You may sit tonight in your private library in the city of Washington and without raising your voice even so much as I do in this quiet hall, those who sit in London and in Paris may listen to your whisper."

"And yet we are invited to believe that the world is still a world composed of islands separated by impassable seas, bridged the mountains and has contracted the globe into a pretty place, indeed, on which we live."

Davis told an audience of 800 Des Moines business men at a dinner last evening that the crowd at the Nelson farm near Bunceton Monday was the largest gathering of Democrats he had ever seen and which remarks again and again, rising to its climax when the speaker paid an eloquent tribute to Woodrow Wilson.

Davis reiterated what he said in his acceptance speech about the League of Nations—that both the duty and the interest of America had demanded that it should become a member of the League.

After further paraphrasing his Clarkburg remarks he added:

"I do not regard the League of Nations as perfect. I do not believe the League of Nations has assumed its final form. I believe in life and growth and custom and habit. I am not even concerned about the terms on which we shall appear. It is the fact of our appearance that will count. And out of that appearance and out of that conference will grow in God's good time a normal habit among men, a custom of conference and a custom of yielding more—not to force; not to a superstition; not to command; but yielding to the common judgment of the civilized world."

Tribute to Wilson.—And it is impossible to think of that subject without thinking of a name, the name of a man who died largely for that cause—who failed. That is as one may think, who fell short of success. Yes—in the absolute sense. But whose name will live; because no man in all history has ever associated his name with a great moral idea and gone down to oblivion.

"He lived in the storm and in the tempest; but from that great height he looked out across the sea and saw the ocean of peace that will finally lap all the shores where dwell the sons of men, and in days to come the nations of the world—not least of all his own—will warm themselves through the centers by the fires that Woodrow Wilson lit."

Davis prefaced his league statement with an expression of his "profound humiliation" that America had not gone into the world court.

"I insist," he said, "that that great act of national honor shall be performed without further delay."

But he could not believe, he went on, that the world court was enough.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 18.—Louise Howard Turnbull, 2 years old, was taken from her mother's bed early this morning and found five miles away several hours later, her clothes stained, and the infant probably near death.

James aroused his audience, which was made up of men of all political faiths, to a high pitch of enthusiasm with his definition of an American as a believer in the three great fundamental principles of human equality, personal liberty, and popular sovereignty.

Again there was a storm of applause when he declared that "constitutionally guaranteed rights are not to be surrendered to a casual majority of the electorate, or of Congress, or of any State Legislature."

Among the guests at the dinner, which was given in Davis' honor by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were many leading Republicans of the state, including Senator Cummins, the president pro tempore of the Senate.

Baby Louise was seized from her mother's side by an unidentified intruder shortly after midnight. Later she was found in the yard of Dell Booth, unconscious and suffering from body injuries and loss of blood. Reports at the hospital indicated only a fighting chance for the baby to recover.

BROTHERS IN HIGH FINANCIAL DEALS TO BE ARRAIGNED

L. C. and G. M. Smith of Kansas City to Answer to Bank Failure Indictments.

OLD COMMONWEALTH $4,000,000 CRASH

Conspiracy and Other Counts Based on Cattle Notes Said to Have Been Spread Among 50 Banks

Special to the Post-Dispatch
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—Part of the story of "high financial deals" which are alleged to have contributed to the $4,000,000 loss to the old Commonwealth National Bank here was written in the Federal Court in St. Joseph yesterday and a few more lines will be written in the Federal Court here today.

The cases of L. C. Smith, former president of the bank, and his brother, Granville M. Smith, former chairman of its board of directors, who were indicted by the Federal grand jury in St. Joseph, will be transferred to the Federal Court here.

The brothers, who were ousted from their offices in the bank's crash in 1922, will appear voluntarily in court here for arraignment, it was said yesterday by officials.

Granville M. Smith, who now is in the loan and investment business at 413 Hall Building, said at his office yesterday that he would take up with his attorney the matter of his appearance in court to answer the charges. L. C. Smith is said to be in the real estate business in California, but living in Kansas City.

Misappropriation Charged.

The names of two men named in the three indictments which charge the Smith brothers with conspiracy and misappropriation of about $125,000 of the bank's funds, were not made public.

C. S. Walden, Assistant United States District Attorney, said George E. Ricker was not indicted. Granville M. Smith and Ricker composed the Smith-Ricker Cattle Loan concern which crashed because of the cattle price inflation of 1922 and resulted in a loss estimated at $7,000,000 to creditors and banks.

Walden said that as far as the Government could learn, Ricker, in his capacity as vice president of the bank, took no active part in the Commonwealth National Bank transactions.

Walden said one of the biggest counts in the indictments was based on a $20,000 note of the Cia Terminal at Tampico, an old company in Old Mexico, in which L. C. Smith is alleged to have had an interest. This note, said to have been unsecured, is alleged to have been put through the Commonwealth National Bank by Smith.

Based on Cattle Notes.

The other counts were based on cattle notes. Walden said the Smiths were accused of taking notes from cattlemen who gave as security on the notes all their holdings. Then, when the cows in cattle prices from $80 to $16 a head came in 1922, the cattlemen needed money to feed their herds. The Smiths are alleged to have taken unsecured notes from the already indebted cattlemen and then put the notes through the Commonwealth National Bank.

The cattle paper is said to have been spread among 50 smaller banks in which Granville M. Smith was either an officer or stockholder, and about 35 banks in which L. C. Smith was interested. The Department of Justice started an investigation of the old Commonwealth National Bank last April, following a report of the bank examiner.

Friendship Severed.

The Smith-Ricker collapse, which was costly to bank stockholders over the country, but not to depositors, severed the friendship between Granville M. Smith and Ricker, who, until then supposed to be melted, were powerful financial figures in the Middle West, especially on the cattle ranges.

Granville M. Smith's advancement as a financier was more rapid than Kansas City had seen before. Coming here from Pleasant Hill, Mo., he organized a bank that "grew" in rapid strides. Its surplus mounted rapidly until the price of stock advanced to $800 a share—nearly 10 times par value. Later, however, the stock was selling at 10 cents a share, an amazing fall.

The secret of Smith's success was cattle paper. He became interested in scores of small banks, and to these he shunted the cattle paper collected by the Smith-Ricker concern.

Wrangel Island, Claimed By U. S., Seized by Soviet

England and Japan Had Also Asserted Ownership—Russian Ship Finds American and 11 Eskimos.

By the Associated Press
MOSCOW, Sept. 18.—The crew of the Russian ship Krasnoyarskiy (Red October) hoisted the soviet flag on Wrangel Island, off Northern Siberia, on Aug. 20, according to an announcement made by the Rosta News Agency. They found an American and 11 Eskimos on the island. The vessel will sail for home Sept. 23.

The Red October, a vessel flying the Russian flag and with Russian乐曲, was recently detached from Petrovskov, Kamchatka Peninsula. It was reported last month, to take the inhabitants of Wrangel Island prisoners, seize the shipping and establish Russian ownership of the island, in the name of the soviet government.

Wrangel Island has been variously claimed for the United States, England, Russia and Japan. The State Department at Washington has held that the island is the property of the United States, on the ground that American explorers, in 1881, took possession in the name of the United States.

Last year the explorer Steffansson brought back news of the American and one Canadian who had gone to Wrangel Island to claim it as a British possession. This party was commanded by Alan R. Crawford of Toronto, and, according to the account, the British flag was first hoisted, and later the American flag was run up over the British.

The American found on the island is probably Charles Wells, who was reported marooned on the island with a party of Eskimos. Wells was left on the island when a rescue party proceeded, after the survivors of the Steffansson expedition.

BAKER ATTACKS DEMOCRATS FOR GOOD ROADS

Candidate Tells Kansas City Workers Proposition No. 5 Will Aid Farmers

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 18.—The Republicans of Missouri will accept the Democratic challenge on the good roads issue. Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for the governorship, declared in an address to a delegation of workers last night at the Grand Theater.

The failure of the Democrats to endorse proposition No. 5, the good roads initiative proposal, was criticized by Baker, who declared the completion of road system was essential if the farmers' situation is to be altered.

"Transportation and a market are all the farmer asks," Baker said. "He asks no special privileges, no quack remedies.

"And the greatest help to the farmer is good roads. What difference does it make what the stage of wheat is if the farmer can't get the wheat to market when the prices are good?"

"What difference it does make if the cattle market is good today and a sea of mud lies between the farmer and his market?"

"And yet, my friends, I have heard some folks are opposed to initiative proposition No. 5 because no state road was built in front of their homes. No system could be built in the state to pass every one's home."

"There is not and should not be any partnership in this proposition. We should all of us be in favor of good roads. But I want to tell you folks what happened at Jefferson City a few days ago."

"Both parties were having their platform conventions. A man came to me representing the Democratic nominee for Governor. He said if the Republicans would endorse proposition No. 5 the Democrats would."

"I told him the Republicans would endorse it whether the Democrats did or not. They failed to endorse it. We endorsed it."

GOVERNMENT GRANTED ORDER TO APPEAL GOLTRA RULING

TO APPEAL GOLTRA RULING

Counsel for the Government today obtained from the Federal Judge Paris an order allowing an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals from his decision of Sept. 4, granting the application of Edward F. Goltra, St. Louis iron manufacturer and former Democratic National Committeeman, for the temporary injunction restraining the Government from interfering further with Goltra's control of Government towboats and barges under his contract with the Government.

The cattle paper is said to have been spread among 50 smaller banks in which Granville M. Smith was either an officer or stockholder, and about 35 banks in which L. C. Smith was interested. The Department of Justice started an investigation of the old Commonwealth National Bank last April, following a report of the bank examiner.

Friendship Severed.

The Smith-Ricker collapse, which was costly to bank stockholders over the country, but not to depositors, severed the friendship between Granville M. Smith and Ricker, who, until then supposed to be melted, were powerful financial figures in the Middle West, especially on the cattle ranges.

CHARTER OF BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL BACK

Restoration, However, Finds Membership Dwindled From 15,000 to 5000.

The charter of the St. Louis Building Trades Council, suspended by the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor a year ago, was personally returned this week by President John H. Donlin, of the building trades department.

The announcement that the charter would be restored, made early in the month, was received with surprise by the building crafts here, as the council has dwindled with the withdrawal of the more important crafts, following a reorganization plan, but it was believed that the charter would not be restored until such reorganization took place.

It is generally understood that the present officers of the council are not considered favorably by the more important crafts here. Thomas McNamara, head of the Asbestos Workers' Union, is president of the council. Maurice J. Cassidy is secretary. Objection is directed chiefly against McNamara.

The action of the building trades department leaves the council with a charter, but with none of the more important crafts enrolled. The membership of the council is estimated at 5,000, of whom 2,500 are in the hodcarriers' and building laborers' union. Officers of the Painters' District Council, and other of the skilled crafts, report that invitations to return to the council have been extended their organizations since the restoration of the charter. These crafts have assumed a "watchful waiting" attitude, however, representatives of some of them announcing that their organizations will not return to the council while the present officers are in authority.

'SPEEJACKS' DIVORCE GRANTED

Decree Given Mrs. Jeannie Gowen Effective in 30 Days.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—A divorce, effective in 30 days, was granted Mrs. Jeannie Gowen, wife of Albert Y. Gowen of "Speejacks" fame, after an uncontested hearing yesterday before Judge A. G. Newcomb. Alimony, the Court was informed, had been settled upon privately.

Mrs. Gowen, who accompanied her husband on a cruise around the world in their 40-foot yacht, "Speejacks," testified he gradually became cold toward her as the trip progressed, and charged him with extreme cruelty and neglect of duty. They were married in New York July 18, 1919. There are no children.

POPE HALTS ANNULMENT

Orders Reopening of Castellan Case, Believed Settled.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 18.—The question of annulment of the marriage of Count Boni De Castellan to Anna Gould, believed to have been settled early in July, when special commissioners appointed by the Pope to examine the case pronounced in favor of annulment, has been reopened.

The Pope, however, has referred the case back to the same special commission, augmented by the addition of two other cardinals, and this body will meet in November to re-examine the Count's application for an annulment.

After the favorable judgment by the commission, it was reported that the pontiff, who usually confirms the decisions of such bodies, had done so in this case. It now is made clear that he was not inclined to the idea of annulment, and that he ordered reconsideration of the judgment.

is believed to be liquor.The detectives entered the place and began to investigate. But while they were so engaged, Kovich's wife, Mary, resenting their visit, opened a rear door and in-words of introduction were "sic

who had been watching Mrs.
Kovich, drew his revolver and fired. He missed the dog, but he served his purpose, for the dog dropped his tail, wheeled about and hastily departed up the alley.
After which the detectives got the

and took Kovich to jail.Today his bondsman—Jack Niemann

Circuit Judge Hamilton and obtained release from five bonds for $15,000, upon which Schollmeyer

he was again arrested after vainly trying to outrun city detectives in a stolen automobile. Upon this occasion he failed to obtain the additional $10,000 bond, demanded by Circuit Attorney Sidener, and was sent to jail.The bondsman said today they originally had underwritten the bonds, at the instance of Schollmeyer's relatives, who assured them, they said, that no further need for bonds would be caused by Schollmeyer. On the occasion of his last arrest, Schollmeyer was captured after a chase from Theresa

Italian Seaplane Entry Has Made

seaplane which wins the Schneider
Cup race, to be flown near Baltimore, Md., Oct. 24 and 25, must maintain a speed well over 200 miles an hour. In fact, a speed of 220 miles an hour has already been attained by one of the Italian planes which will compete.While American navy flyers are confident of repeating the victorywon at Cowes, England, last Fall they concede that all the skill and resources which they possess will be required to hold the cup in Italian flyers have been victorious

Chilly Autumn Days—

Not cold enough to start the furnace yet too chilly for comfort without heatARE you one of the home owners that has said to himself, "As soon as Oil Burners are perfected I'll have one installed."And then being fairly busy doing your regular stint every day, put the question aside as one of the things you were going to really look into—and here it is Fall again.You know mighty well that you would like to be rid of the eternal bother of stoking a furnace with its dust and ashes. The cleaning of flues, the banking of the fire at night, the cold house in the morning, the complete impossibility of maintaining an even temperature, and really solve the problem of that 30 minutes heat you need mornings and evenings the first chill days this Fall.The idea of setting the thermostat, then forgetting about all heating problems for the next eight months intrigues your imagination, but just how are you going about sorting out the claims and counter claims wrapped up in their technical verbage? Where can you turn for an accurate standard of value so far as Oil Burners are concerned?Burning oil is not a new science. Oil Burners have been in use in industrial plants, battle ships, etc., for years.Engineers who have made a study of oil burning and who are authorities on the subject, have all agreed on certain definite fundamental principles which must be followed in order to burn oil efficiently.

The first of these are:

1. Oil must be atomized or broken up mechanically and mixed with the right proportion of air to obtain proper combustion. (Do not confuse terms. Vaporizing or heating oils, or attempts to gasify by hot plates or other artificial means is not atomizing or breaking up mechanically.)2. The second principle. Oil must be burned in the presence of a refractory object which will throw the heat back in the combustion cham-ber. Fire brick has been found to be the most satisfactory refractory material.3. In addition to atomizing the oil and burning it in the presence of a refractory material, the oil must be burned while suspended in the air, before it comes in contact with any cooling surface.4. A certain fixed minimum quantity of air must be thrown into the combustion chamber.Does this all sound rather technical? We hope not. You and several other thousand home owners have a right to expect that the Oil Burner you install in your home relieves you of every heating trouble, that it functions automatically, that it requires no technical knowledge on your part to operate, that it maintains an even temperature in your home whether the thermometer outside registers 60° or zero. Your part must be, and properly so, limited to setting your thermostat at the desired temperature, and order oil at the proper intervals.The Hart Oil Burner Co. honestly and with scientific accuracy has met every fundamental requirement of the perfect oil burner within the limits of human fallibility.We are amply financed and back of this is 35 years successful manufacturing experience. Our guarantee to heat your home satisfactorily means exactly what it says.The Hart Oil Burner consumes Fuel Oil, first because it is the most economical and because it contains more heat units per gallon, it operates just as perfectly with the lighter and higher priced distillates.You know right well that some day you are going to have your home properly heated. Dust and ashes are causing a more rapid depreciation in your home than it should have. Isn't it worth your while to stop this over-depreciation NOW and have this and the rest of your winters spent in comfort? It at least costs you nothing nor places you under any obligation to investigate.Sales and Service Representatives

CASHIER, 18 YEARS OLD, ACCUSED OF $1000 SHORTAGE

Harold Hermann Arrested on Complaint of Officer of Pilley Packing & Flue Brush Co.

Harold Hermann is only 18 years old, but an air of responsibility hangs over him. To his relatives and friends he was known as a "model young man"—one who already was on the road to success. He did not smoke, drink or chew, and he preferred magazines of business over girls. He was general office manager, cashier, bookkeeper, stenographer, mail clerk and file clerk at the Pilley Packing and Flue Brush Co., 606 South Third street.

Today, Harold occupies a cell at Police Headquarters, pending application for a warrant charging him with embezzlement. The vice president of the firm says Hermann is at least $1000, and possibly as much as $3000, short in his accounts. Hermann denies this, and says his shortage was only $674.84, and he will repay it in full. But that's another shortage, the vice president says.

Hermann attributes his present plight to his desire to make good in his mother's eyes. A cold and a toothache and a five-cent discrepancy in his accounts also played a part in his detention.

Arrested Near His Home.

City detectives, accompanied by Chauncey F. Schultz, vice president of the firm, arrested Hermann at 10:15 o'clock last night and took him to the police station to his home, 2710 St. Vincent avenue, with a copy of the weekly which cost him five cents.

Schultz said a shortage of $674.84, covered up by false entries recently was found in Hermann's books, and Hermann confessed and made restitution. Yesterday, another shortage was found, Schultz said.

In his cell, Hermann told this story:

Two years ago he was graduated from business college and went to work for the Pilley Co. for $15 a week. Four months later his salary was raised to $20 a week. Last year he asked for another raise and, believing it would be forthcoming, told his mother he would soon hand her more money each week. It was his custom to give his $18 to her, and she would return him 50 cents a day for lunch and carfare, and $2 on Sundays, for movies and magazines and such.

Decided to Take "Raise."

But the raise did not come. Hermann brooded. There were three children besides him in the family and their father, a shoeworker, had uneasy employment. So he decided to "take" the raise.

Two or three times a week he would charge $10 on the books to "office expenses" and each time pocket the $10. He would take his $15 a week and add $7 of his other money to it and present all $22 to his mother, explaining his excuse had arrived. The rest of the "borrowed" money was deposited to his credit in a bank.

He didn't intend to defraud the firm, as he expected the raise would come eventually. But after his operations had continued from January to June, he became worried and stopped them. He still continued to hand his mother $25, withdrawing the necessary $7 from his bank account.

Charged Fictitious Expenses.

September came, but the raise did not, and Hermann again began charging fictitious "office expenses" to the firm. A week ago yesterday he had to make his home with a cold, and a salesman was brought into the office. That evening, the books failed to balance by five cents, and, checking back, the false entries were discovered.

The shortage was found to be $674.84, and Hermann "made good," his aunt, Mrs. Clifford L. Hines, who lives upstairs over his home, coming to his assistance. He retained his position, or, rather positions.

Last Tuesday, he remained home with a toothache. The following day he had to go to court. Some one else worked on his books these days and reported discovering a second shortage of $1000.

But there is no second shortage, according to Harold, who thinks it "absolutely ridiculous" that he should be arrested.

WHY PRESBYTERIANS ELECTED NEGRO

Pastor Who Nominated Moderator Says Time Has Come to Recognize His Work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—Election Tuesday of the Rev. Charles H. Trusty, negro, as moderator of the Pittsburgh Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, largest presbytery of the denomination in the United States, has created a situation which will require all the diplomacy of the church's leaders to handle.

No other occurrence in the religious activities of this district has stirred so much discussion in years. While a large proportion of church workers, inside the Presbyterian communion and outside, express approval of Tuesday's action, there is a current of hostile sentiment.

Dr. Trusty himself and his friends in the presbytery see nothing in the election other than a deserved recognition and the "manifestation of a broad, Christlike spirit."

"This is one of the most democratic cities in the country," said Dr. Trusty yesterday. "The true spirit of brotherhood prevails among the clergy of our church in this district."

The Rev. O. Newton Verner, pastor of the McKee's Rock Church, who nominated Dr. Trusty at the presbytery meeting, declared that no sort of conferences had preceded his action. There was no pre-meditation, he said.

"Not another man among the delegates knew that I intended to nominate Dr. Trusty," said Dr. Verner. "I myself did not know how he would fare in the voting beside the fact that there was reason for assurance that Dr. Trusty or any other intelligent negro would receive a square deal. It seemed to me that the time had come for some recognition and appreciation of the splendid work done by Dr. Trusty."

"His church, the Grace Memorial, was the first negro congregation organized in this presbytery, and it seemed only logical and fair that if a negro were to be chosen moderator the honor should go to him."

Those expressing dissent at Dr. Trusty's election express the conviction that if there had been a little previous interchange of opinion the outcome would have been different.

Dr. Frank J. Bryson, pastor of the fashionable First Church, North Side, nominated to oppose Dr. Trusty, was not present at the presbytery meeting. It is declared his non-attendance had an adverse effect on his candidacy. It is asserted, too, that many of those who contributed to the 69 votes for Trusty which elected him by one vote over his opponent, would have voted for Bryson if they had stopped to think things over.

Complications, apparently unforeseen Tuesday, are pointed out as probable now, including the attitude which seminary graduates may take toward receiving ordination under a negro moderator. In the meantime, however, Dr. Trusty has been officially inducted into office.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Senator La Follette, independent candidate for the presidency, timed his departure today for New York to address a Madison Square Garden rally tonight so that he would reach his destination just before the meeting.

The speech Senator La Follette will deliver is the first to be addressed by him to an audience since he became a presidential candidate. Before leaving Washington La Follette declared he was in excellent physical trim.

While in New York he expects to confer with a number of supporters, among them President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, whom he has not seen since the federation's executive council endorsed the candidacies of himself and his running mate, Senator Wheeler of Montana.

GIRL FOUND MURDERED

—International Newsreel Photo.

SEEK FARMHAND FOR MURDER OF GIRL

Jersey Authorities Trace Revolver Used in Killing to Missing Man.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A nation-wide net was spread today by county authorities for Harvey Selhaver, suspected slayer of Elizabeth Johnson, 15-year-old farm girl of Kingston, N. J., whose body was found several days ago, after it had lain in the woods for weeks.

Let by Chief Detective Fred David, police and detectives are gathering the threads of evidence together and have eliminated all suspects but Selhaver, a farmhand formerly of Spencer, Ia.

Detective David yesterday announced that the revolver with which the girl probably was slain has been traced to Selhaver, who is alleged to have bought one from a neighbor a few weeks ago. Additional suspicion was drawn upon Selhaver by the finding of an empty box which had contained 22-caliber cartridges.

This was found near the place where a letter, which Selhaver is believed to have written to the girl, mentioning a suicide pact, was discovered. The handwriting has been positively identified by Joseph Johnson, father of the slain girl, as that of Selhaver.

Handwriting experts say the writing shows several unusual things, among them that the writer used crosses instead of periods.

Visitors to the wooded back of the Johnson home Monday morning yesterday discovered there a pair of rolled-up trousers she identified as Selhaver's, and several newspapers of Aug. 11, indicating that he apparently had been sleeping there up to the night the girl disappeared.

The letter, found near an old smokehouse, hinted at a suicide pact between the couple and mentioned a key which he wanted the girl to give him. It told of his love for her and hinted at the impossibility of a life separated from each other.

State troopers are still combing the woods in the vicinity of the tragedy in hopes of finding fresh clues.

Such appointment is desired, the resolution asserts, so there will be on the committee some persons interested in having the River Des Peres sewer northwest of Forest Park completed as speedily as possible.

Work on the sewer has been in progress at Lindenthal for some time.

The Delmar-Skinker association also passed a resolution requesting city officials to take prompt action relative to extension of Skinker road north from Delmar boulevard.

WHEELER INTERROGATED BY BUSINESS MEN OF CLEVELAND

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, vice presidential nominee on the independent ticket, in two speeches yesterday, after explaining the constitutional principles for which the third ticket leaders stand. One of his audiences, a luncheon gathering of business men, was given the privilege of asking questions.

In his night speech, the Senator denounced the Republican administration, particularly because of the conduct in office of former Attorney-General Daugherty, an Ohio man.

The first question asked him at the noon meeting dealt with the comparative efficiency and economy of the Harding and Wilson administrations. He responded that the World War made them incomparable, but that the first Wilson administration was entitled to as much credit as the present Republican administration, which he declared, "gave away a billion dollars in oil lands in one year."

"Where do you stand on the League of Nations?" was the next demand.

"I say that the United States should co-operate with the civilized nations of the world," he responded, "and now that England, France and Germany have liberal governments, the first step toward world peace is to give the United States a seat, too, when we can have plenary instead of defencesdays."

Other questions raised the Constitutional proposals.

"We would put the question up to the people," he said. "You can't have a Supreme Court invalidating child labor laws by five-to-four decisions. We have no intent to let Congress disregard constitutionality in enacting laws."

But the last question asked him at the noon meeting dealt with the comparative efficiency and economy of the Harding and Wilson administrations. He responded that the World War made them incomparable, but that the first Wilson administration was entitled to as much credit as the present Republican administration, which he declared, "gave away a billion dollars in oil lands in one year."

SAYS HIGH TAXES
ON INHERITANCES
'FOOL OURSELVES'

U. S. Treasury Undersecretary Condemns Excessive Death Levies Before National Tax Conference.

Excessive inheritance, or death, taxes defeat their own end by consuming capital, by depressing the worth of the estate, and by destroying initiative, members of the National Tax Association were told last night in an address before their annual conference at Hotel Buckingham.

The speaker was Garrard B. Winston, Under Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, who expressed alarm that the tendency of the State and Federal Government to increase the rates of this form of taxation would, if carried further, ultimately destroy this source of revenue. As an instance, he cited that the increase in the Federal inheritance tax of from 25 to 40 per cent, would, in 1925, yield only an estimated additional $12,000,000 revenue.

Revenue Decreases.

"Nineteen twenty was the first year which felt the full effect of the increase of rates to a maximum of 25 per cent," the Treasury Undersecretary declared. "Our receipts that year were $154,000,000—the most we have ever obtained. But watch the retrogression under the same high tax in the following years: $150,000,000 in 1922, $126,000,000 in 1923, and only $102,000,000 in the fiscal years just closed. It is estimated that, in a few years, the new 40 per cent rates will yield no more revenue than was obtained when the 25 per cent rates. And we not foolishly believe that when we think we can defeat economic laws?"

Inheritance taxes are taxes upon capital, asserted Under Secretary Winston, who cited, as an obvious proposition, that if government, to maintain itself, were to take 50 per cent of every estate, small or large, and if, on the average, in the course of a generation, a man could not double his inheritance, there would be an actual depletion of capital within the country, and, ultimately nothing would be left to

Based on Capital Values.

He pointed out that inheritance taxes are based upon capital values, and that it was of great importance to the tax gatherer that the assets of the decedent be disposed of when the market is up.

The government's necessarily forced disposal of the assets, he added, contributed to the depression of values. He cited that large landed estates in England are almost impossible by reason of high death duties, and can frequently be bought for the price of the improvements.

"We will have more golf players and fewer Henry Fords and Thomas Edisons," declared the speaker, in urging that the high inheritance taxes destroy initiative. "A man will not seek to build up a large fortune, to have it taken away from his family at death."

"A taxpayer looks at things from a personal or short-time, viewpoint. He is interested in his own future. The Government, on the other hand, can afford to reckon on a long range of time in mind future. Perhaps if taxes were levied lightly on the result of a man's own efforts, and heavily upon his inherited assets, they would not destroy the initiative to produce and the Government would still get the maximum of death duties."

"It has, accordingly, been suggested that a light tax be levied on what the decedent himself made, a heavier tax on what his father left him, and a still heavier tax on what remained of his grandfather's estate. Such a policy would meet the wish of those who believe in the welfare of the individual and the family, and would be designed to prevent the continued existence through generations of large fortunes and, at the same time, it would not penalize the initiative which is characteristic of progress. This is a long-time policy of taxation which is perhaps not within the power of governments clamoring for present revenue."

Per Capita Tax Drop.

Undersecretary Winston supplied figures showing that the Federal per capita tax has dropped from $5 in 1920 to about $27, while the State and municipal per capita tax has increased from $20 to $38 to $38.

"It may be true that the Federal Government can, without great danger to its budget, destroy death taxes as a source of revenue," he continued. "We have recently abandoned other fields, such as transportation and the so-called nuisance taxes, without inconvenience. But with the State and local Governments, if this particular source of revenue is destroyed, the situation is not so free from difficulty."

"As between the states, too high inheritance taxes may, perhaps, work themselves out. Already states are bidding for residents expecting to die. Just as states have bid for corporation fees by liberal laws. So wealthy men and women continue to live in states where death is too expensive; nor will corporations, organized under the laws of states taxing stockholders unfairly, find willing investors, but will incorporate elsewhere. Taxes have become personal by reason of their size, and information about them is widespread. A thousand talk taxes where one did five years ago. A state, in order to preserve its own revenue, will therefore be reasonable in its exactions."

The conference, in session at Hotel Chase, today was addressed by F. Zoller on "The Incident of Business Taxes." He said that the important phase of taxation was not who pays the bill in the first instance, but upon whom the burden ultimately rests.

Members of Congress are pro ceeding on the theory that the burden of taxation rests, for all time, on the business taxed," he declared. "The present Federal tax of 12 1/2 per cent on corporation incomes is imposed on the theory that the tax is a burden on the individual stockholders and, for that reason, no tax is levied on dividends from stocks and bonds."

MORE ACTIVE STOCK TRADE; CLOSE MIXED

By Leland Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Evening Part in its copyrighted financial news today, says:

"Discovery in the stock market continued and the turnover amounting to approximately 1,000,000 shares. Strength was distributed both in groups and individual issues, with a score or more of stocks established new high prices for the year. However, despite the more active business, the market was less pronounced than in the previous session. Some irregularity crept in before the close. Money markets were easier with time loans available at 2% per cent for 90 days, a decline of one per cent. Early morning may have played a part in stimulating stocks during the past three days, but it is probable that a more potent reason to be found in the general situation, never having selling. Whether the improvement will prove to be the beginning of another sustained advance remains to be seen. Opinion in the street on the point is still divided. Bonds meanwhile were only moderately active.

Exchanges Easier.
"Sterling dropped one cent to $1.44, and the cover was off at a cent. French francs declined 2% while the pound subsequently rallied to within point of their previous closing price of 53 cents. Other Europeans were slightly lower on the day. Business transactions in smaller stocks were inclined to be more active than buying interest. Those who need exchange bills for commercial purposes are inclined to wait until cotton, grain and other bills come on the market greater volume. For the time being, therefore, due to day's indications are not particularly significant."

Wholesale Prices Higher.
"Wholesale commodity prices index of the Bureau of Labor, published for August, confirms the trend shown by Dun's and Bradstreet's which appeared earlier in the month. Wholesale prices as compiled by the bureau of labor, including the cost of materials, were up 1.8 per cent during August as compared with July. The index figure which stands at 112.7 is, however, slightly higher than that of August last, but still only an increase accounted for by the advances in prices of farm products and foods, although chemical and clothing groups also are higher. While the course of prices as yet reveals no sign of general inflation, there is a short time away in view of the plethora of money it does show that while the farmers are enjoying greater prosperity the cost of living has increased, if slightly."

Employment Increasing.
"In this connection another statistical release of the Bureau of Labor attracts attention. Industrial employment in the nation's industries began an upward trend for August, the first gain since last March. Employee earnings also increased 3.7 per cent and per capita earnings rose 3.5 per cent. These figures give additional evidence of the improvement in business during the past month. However, taken in connection with acceptance yesterday of a 10 per cent cut in wages by the workers of certain New England textile mills, the fact remains that business conditions still are spotsy."

Contraction Abroad.
"The week's statement of the Bank of England and the Bank of France showed a contraction in the month. Circulation of the Bank of France decreased 50,000,000 francs. Discounts and advances also declined sharply. Another drop, of 1,700,000 francs, in the reserves of the Bank of England and an increase in reserve brought the reserve ratio to a new high record for the year at 19.72 per cent."

Commodities Advance.
"Commodities also made good gains on the day. The sharp break in one of the previous days apparently rectified a top-heavy condition and was responsible for a rally in the covering, which left 10 cents off the previous day's higher at $1.84. Wheat also was strong, December finishing with a gain of 1.3 cents at $1.31. In cotton, the tendency of the trade is to ease, with a reduction in the crop estimate, and a further rally in portions of the belt brought another rebound in prices, leaving December options 23 points higher at a late price of 22.10 cents.

17 BODIES STILL IN WYOMING MINE; 22 TAKEN OUT

Man Who Led 11 Others to the Surface Works at Head of a Rescue Crew.

SUBLET, Wyo., Sept. 18.—It is estimated today that 17 men remain within the debris-strewn caverns of mine No. 5 of the Kemmerer Coal Co., which was wrecked by an explosion on Tuesday. Fifty-one men were entombed. It is thought: 22 bodies have been taken out and 12 men came out alive.

Of the 17 bodies still in the ruins, five have been located, all buried beneath the wreckage. Two temporary morgues that have been established at Kemmerer, nine miles south of here.

The County Coroner today will impanel a jury to determine the cause and fix the blame for the explosion, and preparations will be started for the funerals.

Mike Benja, a native of Czechoslovakia, father of four small children and an employee of mine No. 5 for the last 12 years, led 11 of his comrades through the smoke and gas filled entry ways to life and their families.

Less than an hour after he had gained the open air Mike, at the head of a rescue crew, led them to a spot where three of his comrades had been crushed beneath fallen rock.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 18.—A young woman directed the gathering of the United States Bureau of Mines' experts to fight for the lives of the men entombed by an explosion in the mine at Sublet, Wyo., Tuesday. She is Mrs. Mrs. R. Flynn, wife of Dr. F. Flynn, surgeon to the bureau. When the Associated Press received the first report of an explosion, Mrs. Flynn, alone in the Denver office of the bureau, with her superiors out of town, sent a mine rescue car from Trinidad. Mrs. Flynn sent telegram after telegram gathering the forces of experts.

"THE ONLY FUEL FIT FOR YOUR MOTOR"

Boyce-ite

poured into your favorite gasoline creates the only fuel fit for your motor

IF I could talk to you, face to face, for just a few moments, you would become as enthusiastic about concentrated Boyce-ite as I am.

I have used concentrated Boyce-ite in gasoline for three years. At home, in my garage, I keep five cars that are used continuously. Carbon has never been removed from any of these cars, valves ground or a spark plug cleaned, and today they are all running better than when new. One car has gone twenty-six thousand miles and averages fourteen miles to the gallon of gasoline—although the manufacturers claimed a maximum twelve.

That has been my experience with concentrated Boyce-ite.

I have in my office hundreds of testimonial letters; one from the General Manager of the Checker Cab Company—the largest operators of taxicabs in New York. He states, that since using concentrated Boyce-ite in their gasoline, mileage has increased 20% and carbon troubles that formerly cost them thousands of dollars annually, are now a thing of the past.

Car distributors in New York, such as Marmon, Oldsmobile, Stutz, Chandler, etc., have written me stating they have used concentrated Boyce-ite, have obtained unbelievable results and are recommending it to all car owners.

Now, what does this evidence mean? Just this—concentrated Boyce-ite is the greatest fuel ingredient the industry has ever known.

Poured into gasoline, concentrated Boyce-ite creates a perfect fuel—a fuel that forms no carbon, increases power, removes the knock, and is cheaper than plain gasoline because it increases mileage of every gallon of gasoline you use.

I have never known a car owner who has used concentrated Boyce-ite for one thousand miles who did not become wildly enthusiastic. When concentrated Boyce-ite fails—and it does occasionally—it is only because too little has been used. The test was incomplete.

All I ask is that you start to use concentrated Boyce-ite, now. Use it whenever you buy gasoline. Test it for one thousand miles of car operation. Keep a mental record of the increased power before and after using, and a written record of the gasoline saved. After this test you will be as enthusiastic as I am, and from then on you will, like all other experienced motorists, form the habit of using concentrated Boyce-ite every time you buy gasoline.

DRAWN BY
NELL BRINKLEY

UNITED STATES SENATOR
FROM NEW YORK
FORMER COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH, NEW YORK CITY

NATIONAL Defense day has long been under discussion in every newspaper. Whether it should be observed or not has become a matter of controversy.

To my mind, the surest guarantee of national defense lies in the health and vigor of our citizenship. The Finns demonstrated their national prowess by their success in the Olympic games. What it would mean to a nation if every citizen were physically fit!

I read somewhere the other day that a king said to a doctor: "You talk about preventable diseases. If they are preventable why not prevent them?"

If we really believe in national defense, why not begin with the physical bodies, which, after all, are the foundation of the defense?

If a nation were to determine that its every effort should be given to the physical welfare of its people, what wonderful things could be accomplished for the human race. The ancient Greeks did much to make themselves a superior race by the encouragement of athletic sports. To excel in athletic games it is necessary to have a fine physique and normal functioning of all the organs. The Grecian games drove thousands to care for themselves as they would not have done otherwise.

When any nation begins to think in terms of its safety it makes a fundamental mistake unless it begins with the bodies of its citizens.

What good would marching shoes, a heavy knapsack, a bayonet and a gun do if the soldier was physically incompetent to carry the standard load and to march the required number of miles?

It requires no argument to show that a fool and a gun are bad companions. Likewise it is true that guns for national defense can be placed only in the hands of those who have sane minds in sound bodies.

To make a man the best that he can be made in his thinking and in his usefulness to society and to the State demands a healthy body.

The fundamental thing in providing for national defense is to provide a nation of strong and vigorous boys and girls who will grow into strong and vigorous men and women. And no other day could be better for you, as an individual, to begin putting your body into its best physical condition than today.

You can do it by correct eating, by careful daily attention to elimination, by sleeping at least eight hours every night, by seeing that you get plenty of fresh air day and night, and by each and every day exercising in the way that suits you best.

Sometimes, poor little girls, she must manage with its vice versa!

PASTOR DENIES HE POISONED WIFE; VISCERA OF MAN SENT TO CHEMIST

The Rev. L. M. Hight of Ina, Ill., Tells Officials He Purchased Arsenic to "Kill Rats."

STORY OF MINCED HAM REPUDIATED

Stomach of Wilford Sweetin, Who Died a Month Previously, to Be Examined.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 19.—A Coroner's jury here yesterday ordered the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, pastor of the Methodist church at Ina, 12 miles south of this city, held for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Anna Hight, 44 years old, who died Sept. 12, presumably from prussic poisoning. Hight, who was arrested yesterday, was assigned this morning before T. Morse, Justice of the Peace, on a charge of murder. He waived examination and was remanded to jail without bond to await the action of the grand jury at the October term of the Jefferson County Circuit Court.

Accompanied by two physicians, the State's Attorney and Coroner left for Metropolis, where the body of Mrs. Hight is buried. It will be exhumed to obtain other organs to make a more complete examination for further evidence of poison.

With the beginning of the investigation into Mrs. Hight's death, county authorities started an inquiry into the death of Wilford Sweetin, another Ina resident, who succumbed a month ago to what physicians diagnosed as prussic poisoning.

Village Gossip Started Inquiry. The two investigations had their inception in town gossip at Ina, where it was rumored that the Rev. Mr. Hight and Mrs. Wilford Sweetin knew each other better than was held to be proper by the villagers. These rumors, as yet unproved, aroused Coroner Jesse A. Reece and State's Attorney Frank G. Thompson to action.

Mrs. Hight's body was exhumed and her viscera sent to a Chicago Coroner's chemist for analysis. Yesterday Sheriff Grant Holcomb received a letter from the chemist, stating that a lethal quantity of arsenic had been found in the woman's stomach. The Rev. Hight was arrested at the Ina postoffice and an immediate search made of the premises. The prisoner admitted the Sheriff and his men by producing an empty box labeled "arsenic." "I bought poison to kill rats," he explained.

It had been reported by the physicians attending Mrs. Hight that she had eaten minced ham and the poisoning was thought due to this.

Sweetin's Body Exhumed. Sweetin's body was exhumed yesterday and a post-mortem performed. The viscera was sent to Chicago for analysis last night. Thomas Sweetin, father of the dead man, accused the Rev. Mr. Hight in the jail and had to be quieted by attendants.

The analysis disclosing the presence of poison in the body of Mrs. Hight and the finding of the box which had contained arsenic in the pastor's home are the only developments in the case so far. It became known today that a separate investigation has been started by officers of the church of which Mr. Hight is a member. The Rev. C. C. Hall of Mount Vernon, District Superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, had a long talk with the minister at the jail last night. The Southern District Conference, of which Hight is a member, meets at Maysville next week, and the Rev. Mr. Hall will make a report of his investigation to that body.

Deny He Purchased Ham. "I don't know a thing about it," the prisoner maintained. "I bought minced ham for our supper the night our wife was taken ill. She took the poison before she died and I never saw her again. The nurse and doctor told me she did not know what was wrong. I didn't either."

He was confined when asked where he had bought the minced ham, saying he got it at a certain store, where the manager and clerks all denied that he purchased anything from them on the night in question. But in all other details he told a calm, well-ordered story.
